STATE SOCIETY MEETING OPENS

SESSIONS IN EAGLES HALL

Women from over the state were gathering this morning and early afternoon at the Eagles hall on West Center street for the twenty-first annual one-day state meeting of the Ladies' Society to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and by tonight it was anticipated the attendance would pass the 300 mark.

The morning was given over to registration of delegates and visitors. Mrs. Agnes G. Strong of Boone, Ia., grand president, was to arrive shortly after 1 p. m. to be the center of attention at the reception of grand officers.

Marion Woman Speaks

Mrs. Mabel Bonecutter, president of Eclipse Favorite No. 40 of Marion, the hostess group, gave the address of welcome at 1 p. m. and following the response by Mrs. Strong the meeting was opened in ritualistic form by the women of Eclipse Favorite.

After 7 tonight the meeting will be open to eligible firemen and their wives, but the afternoon session and banquet at 6 were arranged for members only.

The large hall on the third floor of the Eagles building was beautifully decorated with deep fringes of white crepe paper and American flags, and the officers' chairs were set before a background of the order's colors of gold, purple, white and red. Large baskets of spring flowers sent by the men of the railroad brotherhoods, and vases of the order's flower, the red carnation, added to the decorations. The tables in the dining room where the banquet will be served at 6, were attractive with large bouquets of cut flowers, and pastel-shaded candy cut favors.

Memorial Service

The session this afternoon, at which the work of the order was to be exemplified by lodges from Columbus, Denison, Willard, Conneaut, Marion, Massillon and Canton, was to include a brief memorial for the late Mrs. Roy E. Crawford of West Columbia street, chaplain of the hostess lodge.

Dry Goods Men Want Tax Bill More Simplified

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 5—Simplification of the floor-stock tax refund provision of the revenue bill was urged upon congress today by the National Retail Dry Goods association.

Harold R. Young, Washington representative of the association, told the senate finance committee the bill's provision for refunds of processing taxes on floor stocks of goods was so hedged about with restrictions that the retailers would not be able to collect.

He recommended that instead of trying to refund processing taxes paid on goods in stock when the processing tax was invalidated, the government should refund to retailers the amount of floor tax paid by them when the processing taxes went into effect in August 1933.

Set Figure at $42,000,000

Treasury experts have estimated that under the bill as written by the house, refunds of processing taxes or floor stocks would reach $42,000,000.

"The government has everything to gain and nothing to lose by the amendment," Young told the committee.

Chairman Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, hoped to finish the hearings this week, but did not indicate when he expected to get the revenue measure before the full chamber.

(The new measure would repeal existing corporate taxes and would provide instead for a tax on corporation net income up to 42½ per cent, depending upon the amount of such income withheld from dividend distribution. Among other provisions it would levy a special "windfall tax on processors who escaped paying the old AAA processing taxes.)

Hits at Meat Packers

Harrison yesterday accused meat packers of using "propaganda" methods which he said were designed to delay the investigation. He said the Institute of American Meat Packers advised its members to testify before the committee and "to buy a railroad ticket to Washington and stay there."

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States opposing the measure, predominated at yesterday's committee hearing. They asked that the bill be postponed and that congress delay new tax legislation until "a sound fiscal program for both expenditures and revenues has been prepared." The chamber views were summarized by Ellwyn C. Alvord of Washington.

Selection of Jury Snags Mansfield Murder Trial

86 Prospective Jurors Examined and Only Seven Selected; Second Special Venire May Be Drawn.

Special to The Star

MANSFIELD, O., May 5—Trial of Charles Wilson, 23, accused of slaying his sweetheart, Jean Moorhead, 17, became bogged in the difficulty of seating a jury today after 86 prospective jurors had been examined in an effort to select 12 satisfactory to the court and attorneys.

Twelve persons were seated tentatively at the close of yesterday's session, but peremptory challenges of attorneys removed five of them and difficulty was encountered getting satisfactory jurors to take their places.

Examine Special Venire

After the original list of 75 prospective jurors had been exhausted, attorneys began examining others from a special venire of 22 drawn last night. At noon today, only nine remained on this list and it was believed another special venire would have to be drawn.

The 92 spectators who filled every available chair in the gallery this morning were disappointed in their desire to hear testimony as the tedious job of selecting a jury continued. It was believed the jury would not be completed until late today. At noon the defense attorneys still had three peremptory challenges left, and the state had four.

Defendant Perks Up

Wilson appeared to take more interest in the proceedings this morning and dropped the downcast demeanor that marked his presence in the courtroom yesterday.

Spectators watched with interest during a short recess this morning when R. E. Moorhead, father of the slain girl, introduced his wife to Howard Wilson, an uncle of the accused youth. They chatted briefly.

Judge Huston rapped sharply for order this morning when several women in the courtroom laughed at one of the answers given by a prospective juror who was being questioned by attorneys. Judge Huston announced any person who created a disturbance would be removed from the courtroom.

Clears All Corridors

The court remained firm on his ruling that the corridors adjoining the courtroom remain empty. Spectators were admitted until the 92 available seats were taken, and deputies then cleared the aisles and corridors.

Many spectators who planned to remain in their seats during the luncheon recess rather than lose their places in the courtroom suffered disappointment when Judge Huston ordered the room cleared for the noon hour.

Two women, the courthouse janitor reported, were at the doors this morning at 6:18 seeking admittance to the courtroom to make sure they would get seats.

The trial began yesterday.

As Charles Wilson heard the tentative jurors affirm that despite the fact they had children of their own they would not flinch before inflicting the death penalty upon the accused should the evidence indicate premeditation and malice, he sat interestedly, but nervously at his counsel's table, conferring with them only occasionally.

C. C. ROBERTS HEADS C., D. & M.

Elected President and General Manager at Directors' Meeting in New York.

OTHER OFFICERS NAMED

Have Charge of Two Other Companies With Offices Here; Local Control Reestablished.

Chester C. Roberts yesterday was elected president and general manager of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. at a meeting of the board of directors in New York City. He also was elected president of the Ohio Electric Power Co., and the Reserve Power & Light Co.

Mr. Roberts succeeds M. J. O'Connell as head of the three companies. Before his election yesterday he was vice president and general manager of the C., D. & M. Although Mr. Roberts did not formally assume his new position until yesterday he has been in charge of the operations of the C., D. & M. and the two other companies since the first of March when Mr. O'Connell retired to devote his time to liquidating other utilities formerly affiliated with the C., D. & M.

Other Officers

Other officers of the three companies elected at the meeting in New York are J. Malcolm Strellitz, vice president and general counsel; H. J. Grigsby, secretary and treasurer; J. G. Lytel, assistant secretary; and C. E. Frost, assistant treasurer. In addition to these E. A. Shrider of Sidney was elected vice president and general manager of the Ohio Electric Power Co.

With the election of Mr. Roberts as head of the C., D. & M. the property is returned to local control. Mr. Roberts and all other officers are residents of Marion. Three Marion men, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Strellix and Mr. Grigsby, also are directors of the three companies. Mr. Roberts was the only one from here to attend the directors' meeting yesterday.

Headquarters Here

The Ohio Electric and Reserve companies are directly affiliated with the C., D. & M. and have their headquarters in Marion. The Ohio Electric serves a territory around Marysville, Urbana and Sidney. The Reserve company serves Crestline and a territory to the northeast.

WATER REFERENDUM CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Utility Committee Holds Meeting in Office of J. W. Jacoby.

Clarence A. Bolin, former mayor, announced today the Citizens' Utility committee which he heads met last night in the office of J. W. Jacoby and made tentative plans for a campaign "to get our side of the waterworks purchase story" before the people prior to the May 12 referendum on the $325 council's purchase of the plant.

The former mayor who headed the administration that voted to buy the plant last year asserted he felt municipal acquisition of the plant was the "only solution" to the city's water rate problem.

The committee, he said will present their views on the purchase in a series of talks and by printed matter before Marion voters cast ballots on the purchase referendum brought by the 1935 administration.

Details of the campaign will be worked out and announced by Mr. Bolin said. He said an effective campaign [illegible]

TOWNSEND INQUIRY DELAYED TWO WEEKS

Doctor Clashes With Investigators on Arrival at Capital for Probe.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 5—Examination of Dr. F. E. Townsend by a house investigating committee was postponed today for two weeks.

Chairman Bell, Democrat of Missouri, announced the hearing had been set over by agreement between the committee and Dr. Townsend and his counsel.

Dr. Townsend, founder of the pension movement bearing his name, accompanied by Sheridan Downey, his personal counsel, arrived a few minutes before the hearing was to have started.

He examined a small portfolio of papers through his spectacles as photographs were taken and he awaited the arrival of the committee.

Even before he appeared, Townsend and the investigators clashed. The physician called the committee a "hoax," while Rep. Gavagan, Democrat of New York, said that when "this investigation is finished there will be nothing left of the Townsend plan but the idea."

DUCE PROMISES TO GUARD LIVES OF FOREIGNERS

U. S. Envoy Returns to Legation He Fled After Four Days' Battle With Rioting Tribes.

PROTECTED BY BRITISH

By The Associated Press

Rome's conquering legions reached their goal of Addis Ababa today and all Italy celebrated.

The Fascist troops entered an Ethiopian capital through which for four days, hordes of rioting natives had spread terror.

Just previous to the Italian entry, Cornelius Van H. Engert, United States minister-resident, and his staff had evacuated the American legation for the safety of the British compound after days and nights of standing off mobs.

The American legation was later reoccupied by its own officials who reported all of its contents were undamaged.

The Italian government informed Washington that the victorious Italian troops would protect the lives and property of foreigners in the Ethiopian capital according to the rules of war.

Envoy Sends Word

First word of the fall of Addis Ababa was given by the British minister who reported that a large force of conquering Italian warriors entered Addis Ababa to relieve thousands of foreigners besieged for four days in various legations.

This word was wirelessed to London by Sir Sydney Barton, the British minister, shortly after the sorely pressed American legation had been evacuated.

Engert, with other whites in Addis Ababa, had been standing off wild tribesmen-bandits, hoping advancing Fascist legions soon would bring relief.

Shortly afterward a British patrol went into action with machine guns to repel an attack on the Belgian legation by rampaging rioters.

Incoming French troops from French Somaliland were blocked temporarily by destruction of part of Ethiopia's lone railway 30 miles from Addis Ababa.

From Djibouti, the fleeing emperor Haile Selassie was taken on a British cruiser toward Haifa, Palestine, with responsible reports indicating he had salvaged all the crown jewels, much gold bullion and silver currency, and even had taken along six of his motor cars.

Nasibu Flees Too

The leaders of the southern Ethiopian forces, Ras Nasibu and his Turkish adviser and staff officer, Wehib Pasha, fled also, stopping in Djibouti for the time being.

In Rome confident Fascists believed they would be called in a short time for another gigantic "adunata," or national mobilization such as that which drew 20,000,000 on the eve of the Ethiopian campaign last October.

Dispatches to Rome from Marshal Badoglio indicated the main columns of troops was only 6.25 miles from Addis Ababa, and the adunata was expected to follow occupation quickly.

Premier Mussolini's triumphant declaration of final and complete victory might even be pronounced before tonight's important meeting of the Italian chamber of deputies, Roman sources indicated.

London sources reporting the British government frankly humiliated by the unexpectedly easy conquest of Ethiopia, reflected demands of laborites that punishment of Italy through sanctions should be continued and increased.

Selassie May Live in Swiss Villa

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 5—Everett A. Colson, American former advisor to Emperor Haile Selassie, said today the fugitive Ethiopian ruler, who owns a villa at Vevey, Switzerland, probably would go there to live in permanent exile.

Colson, who left Addis Ababa April 2, before the collapse of organized Ethiopian resistance to the Italians and the flight of the emperor, was visiting here with his wife. He came to Egypt on "sick leave" because his heart was affected by the high Addis Ababa altitude.

Colson, who guided Ethiopia's foreign affairs for six years, said reports that Haile Selassie was wealthy were "mythical." Instead, the American asserted, the emperor's holdings were principally landed.

Colson said Haile Selassie made no investments abroad, and spent lavishly in furnishing a new pala[illegible]

BIRTH CONTROL SEEN BIG POLITICAL ISSUE

Margaret Sanger Predicts Action Unless Postal Authorities Ease Restrictions.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 5—Margaret Sanger foresaw birth control today as a possible national political issue unless pending federal legislation to permit birth control education through the mails is enacted.

She said 300 organizations representing more than 10,000,000 persons had approved the legislation sponsored in congress by Rep. Percy L. Greaway, Democrat of Oklahoma, and asserted that opposition of religious groups was crumbling.

The president of the National Committee on Federal Legislation for Birth Control, just returned from a trip to India where she established 50 birth control teaching centers, added:

SHERWOOD WINS PULITZER PRIZE

"Idiot's Delight" Adjudged Best Play of Season; Davis Novel Selected.

NEW YORK, May 5—Pulitzer prizes in letters and journalism for 1936 were announced last night with "Idiot's Delight" by Robert E. Sherwood being adjudged the best play of the season.

Other awards were:

Poetry—"Strange Holiness" by Robert P. Tristram Collins.

Newspaper correspondent — Will Barber who died covering the Ethiopian war for the Chicago Tribune.

James Biography Wins

History — "The Constitutional History of the United States" by Andrew Cunningham McLaughlin, 75-year-old retired history professor at the University of Chicago.

No award was made for a cartoonist this year.

Each of the five prizes in letters was worth $1,000. The individual prizes in journalism, with the exception of the $1,000 prize for reporting were worth $500.

Decisions made by the advisory board of the Pulitzer School of Journalism at Columbia university and approved by trustees of the board were kept as closely guarded secrets until announced last night at the annual dinner of alumni of the School of Journalism.

Made Since 1918

The Pulitzer awards have been made annually since 1918 in accordance with a bequest established by the late Joseph Pulitzer.

"Idiot's Delight" was produced by the Theater Guild at the Shubert theater March 24 with the guild's chief stars, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne (Mr. and Mrs. Lunt) in the leading roles. It was an instant success and has played at capacity ever since.

The play, generally adjudged the best of a half dozen by the tall, lean Sherwood, former motion picture critic and magazine editor, is a temperate but nonetheless affective castigation of war.

The setting is a hotel on an Alp just inside Italian territory; the time, any tomorrow when a European war breaks out. Marooned in the hotel by the outbreak of war is a cosmopolitan group consisting of a small-time American vaudeville dancer and his seven blonds, a French munitions king, a famous German scientist, a honeymooning British couple, an ardent French communist, and a fake Russian princess, mistress and business aid of the munitions czar.

Nationalism Crops Out

The outbreak of a fierce nationalism in the group follows the beginning of the war, the efforts of the American to identify the Russian princess as a vaudeville actress he slept with one night in Omaha and the homely philosophy of the dancer viewing the war fever as an outsider who cannot understand why such things must be, make up the play.

Sherwood has written several successful plays, among them being "The Road to Rome," "The Petrified Forest," "The Queen's Husband" and "Reunion in Vienna."

"Honey in the Horn" is the first published novel of Davis. It was the 1935 winner of the biennial Harper prize novel award of $10,000. Critics hailed the work as tapping an unused source of American life, dealing with pioneers in the Pacific northwest. The writing is robust and realistic. The novel was a best seller for many months after its publication.

Three scholarships, $1,500, were awarded to the following Columbia journalism school graduates for travel in Europe: Sevellon Brown, Providence, R. I.; Helen Beal, Delaware, O., and Louis H. Blumbaum, Cleveland.

CONTRACTS APPROVED BY BOARD IN GALION

All Except Four Teachers Appointed by Bemiller Win Official Okay.

Special to The Star

GALION, May 5 — The Galion school board acted upon teachers' contracts for the coming year and transacted other business Monday night at Senior High school building.

Although the entire list of teachers now employed in the public schools was appointed by the superintendent, J. F. Bemiller, all except four were approved by the board. Of the four, two have not yet been voted upon, and the other two were not employed. The complete list of names of those hired and their salaries will be published as soon as the list has been rechecked and contracts have been mailed to the teachers. The total of salaries this year was increased $1,360 over that of last year, the salary schedule accounting for the increases to those teachers who have added training and experience.

Supt. Bemiller was authorized to check repair work needed to buildings, and check on school supplies needed for next year. Walter VonBrock, school music supervisor, was hired for two summer months at the rate of $100 a month

25 DOGS SEIZED BY COUNTY WARDEN

Twenty-five dogs, including two known sheep killers, were impounded in Marion county last week by Dog Warden Elmer Ullom, his weekly report to county commissioners shows.

The warden said he impounded four sheep killers within a five-day period.

One sheep claim was filed with the warden this week by E. B. Porter of Green Camp township. Two dogs killed seven of Mr. Porter's ewes and injured another. The dead ewes are valued by Warden Ullom at $63 and injuries to the eighth are estimated at $4. Both dogs were captured. One was destroyed and the other returned to his owner when he paid half of the Porter claim.

GREEN OF A. F. L. URGES ROOSEVELT'S REELECTION

Lauds Chief Executive and Deplores Conditions Resulting from Death of NRA Setup.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 5—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor declared today for the reelection of President Roosevelt.

Addressing the convention of the National Women's Trade Union league he said "we have been inspired and thrilled by the leadership destiny has given us. We want to continue it."

Reporters inquired subsequently if he had meant advocacy of the reelection of Roosevelt Green assented.

In his speech, the labor leader spoke of "slaughter" of NRA wage and hour standards by industry since the supreme court invalidated that new deal agency. He contended principles of that extraordinary law would be restored in legislation.

The NRA and social security program were praised by him.

"We can't," he said, "afford to make any change in the leadership of this great forward movement.

"There is being awakened a social consciousness in America," he said. "Neither a political election, the development of any political program of any kind, no matter who will be in charge, can stop this new social development which has gripped the nation. We are standing on the threshold of a great future."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear wife and mother, Emo Ault, who passed away one year ago today, May 5, 1935.

Good night loved one, we miss you.
And your smiles no more we see,
You are happy now with Jesus
From your suffering body free.
Jesus had His mansion ready,
He, Himself prepared it all;
Though him you were ready for it,
Then He gave a sudden call.
Sweetly rest from all your labors
Far from every grief and pain
We often talk about you
While we here on earth remain
Then at last when life is over
We will meet you on that shore
Where the wicked cease to trouble
And the weary weep no more.

Mr. Arthur G. Ault and children.

Youth Writes On Value of Workshop in Home

Below is one of a series of articles on hobbies, written by a member of the Marion Hobby club in connection with the eighth annual hobby and handicraft exhibit which will be held at the Y. M. C. A. May 12-16 under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., the Kiwanis, Rotary and Hobby clubs and the public and parochial schools.

* * *

John Imbody, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Imbody of Vernon Heights, writes with authority on "The Value of the Home Workshop"—a Napoleonic coach which he constructed in his own home workshop brought him a $5,000 scholarship from the Fisher Body Craftsmen's guild, and a trip to Canada to receive the award.

Young Imbody, who is a pupil at Harding High school, has the following to say on his subject:

In the days before the industrial revolution, the home was the center of practically all activities. The simple trades were essential requisites of the head of the family. He needed to know how to mend and make harness; how to forge; how to devise instruments for every-day use. The weaving of cloth, on a homemade loom, from cotton and flax raised on the farm was part and parcel of existence. A knowledge of carpentry and cabinet work was essential if he were to house his family comfortably. He knew how to cure the meats of the animals he slaughtered. All in all, the simple existence required a knowledge of and an ability for doing many things to bring comfort and peace into family life.

With the advent of power machinery, this knowledge and ability became less and less significant, and the complexity of life required a working knowledge and skill in a specialized field.

So we of the present day find those activities, which our forefathers followed as a vocation, are for us more or less a hobby. Our leisure time must be passed in some kind of creative work. It makes no difference what our hobby may be, just so our interest is in that hobby.

The great number of home workshops indicates the increasing interest in hobbies as pleasurable and profitable activities. The hobby field is unlimited and therefore it meets the desires of each individual.

The spread of the home workshop idea has been very extensive in the last few years. It is undoubtedly due to the stress which schools have placed on manual training; it may have begun from the increase of leisure time; it may have been encouraged by the entry of cheaper and more efficient tools. But more than likely its growth has been due to a combination of these factors.

The values to be gained from a worthwhile hobby have been demonstrated many times. Men who follow sedentary businesses find relaxation and moderate exercise in working in their shops. They enjoy a let-down from nervous strain by working with their hands, regardless of the project.

The variations of projects to be made in the home workshop are many; from the simplest toys and gadgets with hand tools to the finest furniture with the aid of electrically driven machines. But regardless of complexity, any activity carried on with interest is of real worth.

But to the average boy the home workshop is of inestimable value. It offers an opportunity for a worthwhile diversion during his spare time, and not only teaches him to do things with his hands but fosters an invaluable sense of proportion. It develops his powers of concentration and invention. All in all, it serves to lay the foundation on which may revolve his inter-life activity, regardless of its nature.

The Stars Say--

For Wednesday, May 6

IMPORTANT PLANETARY operations, both by lunar and solar direction, make of this an eventful and progressive day. This may occur as part of the breaking up of long stagnant and crystallized conditions, making way for initiative and success through industry, application and sound judgment. Elders and employers are contributory to this advancement, which should mean accumulated funds or gain by lands, tenancies, mining or agriculture. Secret bodies and corporations also assist by cooperation.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which there will be a breaking away from old congestions and long-standing obsicles, making way for a decisive progress in the affairs, with stability of the fortunes and accumulations through savings, lands, tenancies, industry, agriculture or mining. Practical plans will succeed, gaining the support of employers, elders or secret bodies. Undercover agreements or understandings may be necessary to success.

A child born on this day may be practical, constructive, methodical and hard working, gaining the indorsement of elders and employers.

April Short On Everything But Chilly Weather

April was a month to be checked off the calendar by Marionites who have been awaiting the advent of spring for the last six weeks. A more miserable month can scarcely be imagined.

April fell short of everything—temperatures, rainfall, sunny skies and everything that "sweet April" is supposed to bring after months of weary winter. A general survey among residents probably would reveal that after all, zero weather wasn't so bad after one got used to it, but that April weather—ugh.

The average temperature for the month was 2.69 degrees below the normal of 49.6 degrees, and the rainfall fell .93 of an inch below the average of 3.37 degrees of "April showers."

Only in snowfall can Marionites be thankful that April of 1936 wasn't like some Aprils of a few years ago. Last month the snowfall measured 1.50 inches of slush, but in 1915 eight inches of snow blanketed the city.

Some idea of the general disagreeableness of the month can be gathered in figures that show 17 days were cloudy from sunrise to sunset, 10 were partly cloudy and only three were absolutely clear.

The highest temperature recorded here last month was 77 degrees on the twenty-ninth and thirtieth and there were only five other days when the mercury went to 70 or above.

Seventy-seven degrees seemed like hot weather to shivering residents, but it may be that a few of the shiverers remembered the April of 1915 when the official maximum temperature was 91.

The minimum reading was 25—cold enough—but twice before, in 1907 and 1911, the drop was to 15 degrees above the zero line.

ROUGE PLANT OF THE FORD MOTOR CO... AT DEARBORN, MICH.

When you "watch the Fords go by," you see a tangible tribute to the Ford engineering that has placed more than 20 Million Fords on the road.

To maintain it that way— —keep it up to SOHIO Standard!

When men speak out in praise of their cars, Ford owners are never to be outdone. Yet, some Ford owners never fully realize just how much performance has been built into their cars.

Don't expect your Ford to give you the best it has in it with just any old gasoline and any kind of lubrication. Your Ford is like any other car that way. It won't do it.

And that's where we come in. Working closely with automotive engineers we have spent millions of dollars in developing fuels and lubricants to enable modern cars to deliver top-most performance. These are the products that go into your car when you bring it up to Standard.

Just turn in at any station where you see the SOHIO sign. We'll do the rest. And when you pull out, we're sure that it will be with a resolution to join the hundreds of thousands of motorists who are now regular customers at SOHIO stations.

Gov. Davey made no reference to Young's challenge when he addressed the gathering. He later declined to comment on it.

The governor asserted his administration had done a "systematic job of giving representation in the state government to all races and groups in Ohio."

"I ask him to share his Toledo meeting with me," said Young, "and I will share my Youngstown meeting with him."

Gov. Davey opened an intensive four-day campaign in Cuyahoga county with yesterday's address. Young departed on a week's tour in other sections of Ohio.

False Reports May Bring Dog Owners Trouble

Marion county dog owners who made false statements, either intentionally or through lack of knowledge, when they obtained their 1936 dog tags are to be the target for a drive by County Dog Warden Elmer Ullom.

This was announced today by County Auditor Harry V. Mounts, in whose office the dog tags are sold. The occasion for such a drive is the discovery by the dog warden that a number of dogs, whose owners declared they were spayed females when they purchased tags, have borne litters of pups since. Tags for spayed females sell for only $1, while tags for female dogs are $3.

Owners who have deliberately made a false statement when they purchased their tags or those who bought spayed tags and have discovered since that their dogs are not spayed are urged to report the error to the county auditor and pay the additional $2. They can avoid "trouble" if they will do this, Auditor Mounts said. He pointed out that the owners might be liable to prosecution for swearing to false statements.

In most cases of this kind the owners have unintentionally given false information and are willing to correct their error and pay the additional amount, Mr. Mounts said. However, there have been a number of instances in which the owner has made a deliberate attempt to cheat the county of its full fee, he added.

The auditor reported that there have been 4,642 dog tags sold in Marion county to date this year. The number is expected to exceed 5,000 within the near future.

ERROR IN CONTEST REPORT CORRECTED

Flora Wood of Sycamore was awarded first honors in the piano contest for contestants 20 and older, in the Wyandot county amateur musicians' contest at the Harpster High school Friday night instead of Doris Honsberger of that place. The Star's account of the contest erroneously reported that Miss Honsberger was awarded the honor.

HOUSING LOANS TAKEN BY 208

Director for This District Reports for This and Nearby Counties.

A total of 208 Marion county residents have availed themselves of the modernization credit provisions of the federal housing act, their loans aggregating $51,910.

This was announced today by A. L. Guckert, director of the Columbus district of the federal housing administration, which comprises 45 counties in the central Ohio area. Figures for nearby counties in the district also were announced.

Mr. Guckert's figures show 11,093 residents in the counties under his direction have taken advantage of the government's loaning plan, their loans totaling $2,855,374. The number of loans made, and the amounts, in nearby counties follow:

Delaware, 114 loans totaling $24,104; Hardin, 71 totaling $19,445; Morrow, 30 totaling 7,139, and Union, 67 totaling $12,376.

Modernization credit loans are available up to $2,000 for repairs and alterations to property, and up to $50,000 for the purchase and installation of certain types of equipment. These loans are repayable over a period of one to five years at a rate of $5 per $100 discount. They are strictly character loans, no security being required other than a promissory note. Federal housing administration officials estimate that for every $1 spent for home modernization under this plan, $5 is spent in cash for similar improvements. Based on this estimate, more than $14,000,000 has been spent for modernization in the 43 counties in this district since the federal housing act was passed.

The modernization credit plan recently was extended by congress to April 1, 1937. The plan is not to be confused with the federal housing administration insured single mortgage system for real estate, under which it is possible to borrow up to $16,000 for the construction, purchase, or refinancing of urban property. These loans may be repaid in a period of from one to 20 years in monthly installments. Information on all FHA loans may be obtained at local banks or at the Marion Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

Scarlet Fever.

SCARLET FEVER, also called "scarlatina," is a greatly feared disease. This is no wonder because when once a child is ill with scarlet fever it is impossible to know what may be the outcome. Fortunately, serious complications do not occur in every case.

The disease was first accurately described in 1675 by that well-known English physician, Sydenham. Although it was recognized as extremely contagious, it was observed that many did not contract it after exposure.

This escape from the infection can be explained in two ways: First, it is possible that at times the agent of infection is less active than at other times. Second, it is possible that some persons develop an "immunity" or resistance to the disease.

On the other hand, some are extremely susceptible to scarlet fever. In that event, it is found sometimes that a given family may be easy victims of the ailment. A careful study of statistical records shows that in many instances every child in a large family becomes infected with scarlet fever. In certain families, too, the disease seems to be more severe than in others.

While more research has been conducted as to this disease than any other of the infectious diseases, it has not been possible as yet positively to identify the germ which causes it. Some scientists believe the germ is so small that it cannot be seen through the microscope. Since the "streptococcic" germ appears in most cases of scarlet fever, some students of the subject regard this as the responsible organism. But the problem is as yet unsolved.

It is wise for every mother to be familiar with the early symptoms of the infectious diseases like scarlet fever. She should bear in mind that as a rule the victim complains of a sore throat, fever, upset stomach and a characteristic rash.

The rash usually appears within 24 hours. It is first seen on the neck and upper part of the chest, and gradually spreads to other parts of the body. It is bright red in color, lasting from three to 10 days, when it gradually fades, and after that there is peeling of the skin, the surface coming off in scales, flakes and even large pieces.

It is best to consult with the doctor as soon as the child presents any symptoms or signs that arouse a suspicion of scarlet fever. He will decide what the trouble really is and outline the treatment. The doctor will instruct you in the measures necessary to prevent the complications which may be more serious than the disease itself.

Above all, it is important to recognize the disease as early as possible. To do so will lessen the dangers of the disease to the young sufferer and also prevent its spread to others.

Answers to Health Questions

Mother, Q.—My baby, of six months has eczema. She is bottle-fed. What treatment will overcome the trouble? She is apparently healthy in other respects.

A.—There may be some fault in her diet or elimination. The formula may be too rich and therefore indigestible. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. M. R. G. Q.—I am 28 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh only 115 pounds. How can I gain weight?

A.—The diet should be well balanced and nutritious. Avoid overfatigue. Improve the general health. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ADDIS ABABA, May 5.—With traditional British nonchalance, a British newspaperman was married yesterday to the accompaniment of bandit shooting.

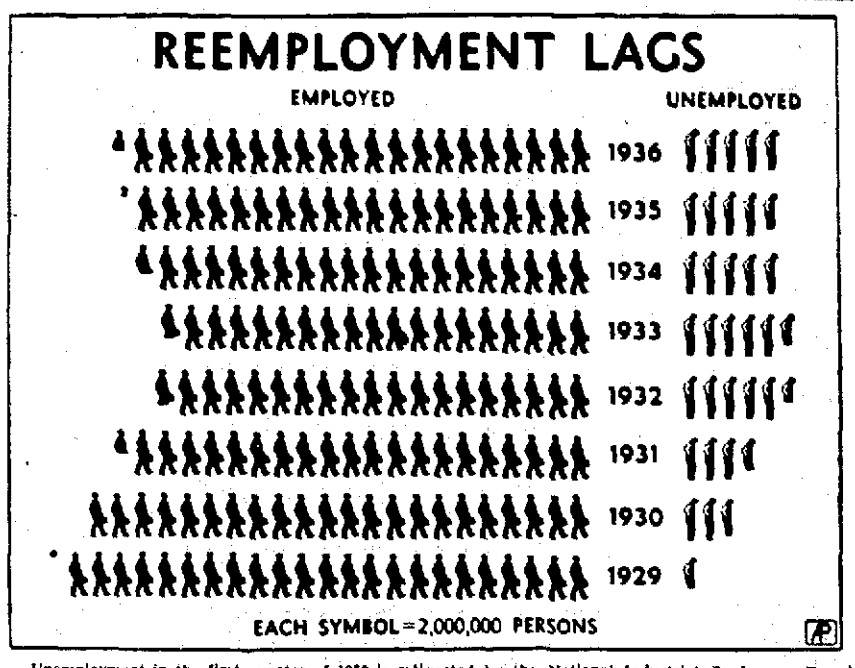
The ceremony was performed within the British legation while Sikh soldiers stood guard against mobs in the capital.

How's Business?

MILLIONS STILL LACK JOBS DESPITE 50 PER CENT GAIN BY INDUSTRY AND TRADE



Unemployment in the first quarter of 1936 is estimated by the National Industrial Conference Board to total about 9,619,000. This is virtually unchanged from the average of the past two years and is more than six and one-half times the 1929 unemployment figures. The chart above illustrates the situation, by years, each man being symbolic of 2,000,000 persons.

This is the second in a series of six articles on the progress of economic recovery.

By FREDERICK R. GARDNER
(Associated Press Business Writer.)

WASHINGTON, May 5—While the hammers of American industry beat today at the fastest tempo in six years, they chip away but slowly at the stubborn mass of unemployment.

Although no census of the jobless has been taken, latest estimates range from 9,642,000 by the National Industrial Conference Board to 12,550,000 by the American Federation of Labor.

Such calculations indicate a pronounced lag between recovery in employment and the sweeping pickup in industrial production.

The estimates of the National Industrial Conference Board, a statistical organization supported by corporations, show that the huge accumulation of jobless from 1929 to 1933 has been reduced by only about 30 per cent. The American Federation of Labor, using a different basis for its computation, figures that less than 25 per cent of the extreme increase in idleness has been hammered away.

Industry 50 Per Cent Better.

Most statistical measurements show that about half of the loss in industrial production between 1929 and early 1933 has been recovered. The U. S. bureau of labor statistics shows a similar recovery in factory employment.

What is perplexing to many analysts, however, is the fact that in the later phases of recovery, factory employment has not kept pace with the gains in production.

For instance, for the last two years alone, the federal reserve board figures show a jump in industrial production of about 12 per cent, while the bureau of labor statistics shows a gain in factory employment in that period of only 7 per cent. This brings up what is perhaps the most controversial phase of the entire problem, the growing use of labor saving machinery.

Dispute Over The Machine.

How many men have been displaced by machines? How much of the idleness is what is known as technological unemployment.

Labor leaders say much of it is due to this cause, and demand a shorter work week.

A number of industrialists, on the other hand, assert that labor saving machinery increases employment by adding to the grist of cheap production, making more jobs in distribution, selling and serving the increased outturn of useful appliances and goods.

Then whence comes this huge army of jobless?

Among the explanations offered is the estimated 5,000,000 added to America's population in the last six years.

Another factor cited is that building and construction activities still are relatively depressed, although there has been pronounced improvement in the past year. Employment also appears to lag in the miscellaneous services, embracing that vast army of workers who wait on tables, shine shoes, deliver ice and do a host of other odd jobs.

Capital Timid?

Business analysts say also that in the early phases of recovery, capital is timid and new enterprises are slow to develop. They explain that the development of a new industry which would thrive as the automobile industry did in the decade after the World war might greatly alter the scene.

Another factor tending to deter the decrease in the total of unemployed, some point out, is that many workers, in the worst of the depression, were employed only one or two days a week. They now receive fatter pay envelopes, but at no time were they listed as unemployed.

In the meantime, the government continues to support millions of families with relief funds. Latest estimates indicate that the number of persons so supported, including those able to work and their dependents, is around 19,000,000.

(In the third article, Frank J. Weller of the Washington staff of The Associated Press will discuss recovery in agriculture.)

HARDING CEREMONY SET FOR THURSDAY

Honor Pupils Will Be Inducted Into National Society.

The 47 Harding High school seniors who were recently elected to membership in the National Honor society will be formally inducted at a candlelight ceremony Thursday night at 8 in the west assembly hall of the school.

Five members of former graduating classes and Principal K. H. Marshall and Miss Edith Brown, faculty sponsor, will take part in the service.

Mr. Marshall will give a short address to the group, and Miss Brown will present the candidates for membership.

The four cardinal characteristics of a member of the society will be explained by the following alumni: Miss Dorothy Pace, scholarship; Willard Durfey, service; Miss Mary C. Hogan, leadership; Miss Betty Strayer, character. Miss Strayer will preside.

The service will be open to all parents and friends of the honored pupils and honor society members of other graduating classes have been especially invited to be present.

MEEKER PASTOR TO SPEAK ON "HOBBIES"

Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of the Meeker M. E. church, will speak on "Hobbies" at the last meeting of the Meeker Parent-Teacher association Thursday night at the school. The newly-elected officers will be installed. Mrs. Ralph Williams, Mrs. Serge Baker and Mrs. Gene Schreck will be in charge of a program which will consist of musical selections by Doris Miller, Florabel Anderson and Sidney Anderson, songs by first and second grade pupils under the direction of Miss Belma DeLong, and readings by Virginia Higgins and Janet Smith.

RENT RELIEF PLAN DROPPED

Commissioners To Discontinue Allowances to Property Owners.

The housing relief plan under which property owners are given credit on their taxes for rent due them by relief client tenants will be discontinued in Marion county at the end of this month, county commissioners announced today.

The practice, which is authorized by Ohio law under the Annet bill, must be stopped because the county has no funds with which to pay the salary of a housing relief investigator, O. C. McCurdy, chairman of the board of commissioners, explained. Discontinuance of the plan is part of a move to cut the administrative expense of poor relief, which is not permitted to exceed five per cent of all relief funds distributed by the county.

Under the provisions of the Annet bill property owners who give shelter to tenants on direct relief rolls are credited with one-twelfth of their taxes on the property each month. This is exclusive of special assessments, County Auditor Harry V. Mounts pointed out.

Under the plan the clerk of the county commissioners issues a voucher each month to the county auditor for the rent of the relief client. No voucher is issued in the real estate owner unless he agrees to accept it for rent. If the property is mortgaged the voucher must be indorsed by the first mortgagee that he will agree not to foreclose on the property as long as it is occupied unless he gives the county commissioners 30 day's notice.

Notice of discontinuance of the housing relief plan is to be sent to property owners and relief client tenants this month.

In 1934 and 1935, when the federal government bore the relief load in Marion county, property owners received some cash rent for relief client tenants from the government. This was discontinued last December when the relief burden was shifted to the county. When the government had charge Lloyd Dudley of Marion was housing relief investigator.

LIEUT. MOHRHOFF GIVEN CCC POST

Second Lieutenant O. W. Mohrhoff of 404 West Columbia street left today for Columbus where he will remain for a few days before being assigned to duty with a CCC camp. He is a member of the Reserve Officers association and is secretary and treasurer of the Marion Area chapter.

Lieutenant Mohrhoff has been granted a six months' leave of absence by his employers, the Kroger Grocery & Baking company. He has been with the company for the last three years and for one and one-half years has been manager of the Kroger store on West Columbia street. Prior to that time he was with the Osgood company. Russel Glauner will be in charge of the West Columbia street store during Lieutenant Mohrhoff's absence.

Mrs. Mohrhoff and their son will remain here for the present.

40 ET 8 VOITURE TO VISIT LARUE

Members of the Marion County Voiture 40 at 8, met last night at the Legion Dugout. During a discussion of plans for the organization's participation in Memorial day services, it was announced that the voiture's box car and train would be taken to LaRue, Sunday, May 31.

Initial plans to complete the box car and train to attend the national convention in Cleveland during October, were also discussed. The organization's "Ruhe" band is also making arrangements to attend the convention.

Refreshments were served following the business session.

Mother's Day —

In 1914 Mother's Day was taken up by Congress, who recommended that a day be set apart in honor of Mothers; Congress said: We honor ourselves and the Mothers of America when we do anything to give emphasis to the home as the foundation head of the State; and the American Mother is doing so much for the home, the moral uplift and religion, hence so much for good government and humanity.

TUESDAY, - - - - - MAY 5, 1936

Our Money's Worth.

By a huge majority the house has passed the naval appropriation bill for $531,068,707, largest in American history. It is a worthy companion to the army allotment of $543,341,506, largest in peace time history.

Some of this expenditure is justified. Equipment must be replaced. Obsolete ships must be retired and new ones provided. This raises an interesting point, by the way. Construction of two capital ships, costing upward of $50,000,000 each, will not be started by the navy until Great Britain begins to lay down the keels for two similar ships. Reports that the British are vigorously pushing their naval building program do not encourage the hope that keel laying will be delayed long.

In times of international unrest such as these it is almost useless to shout against the clamor for a record appropriation. Yet the conclusion cannot be escaped that the United States, which is so strategically situated as almost to immunize it from attack, is likely to be forced into using every penny of its budget by building competition with Great Britain and Japan.

It is probable, therefore, the $531,066,707 will help to give the United States its biggest and best navy. Skeptics will wonder if we shall get our money's worth in satisfaction of national pride, or whether the building display will serve more to increase world tension. Such questions hardly can be answered, but another query occurs which should be satisfactorily answered, so long as taxpayers are to foot this huge appropriation bill. Whom does the United States fear? Whom are we preparing to fight?

The Close In.

There is genuine comfort in knowledge that Alvin Karpis, professional bad man, is locked up in jail out in St. Paul. It's a big country and the possibility of encountering one hoodlum worse than the ordinary run of bandits and gangsters is slight. But it always can happen.

In a more general sense there is satisfaction in reading how the tough Mr. Karpis was captured by J. Edgar Hoover's newly famous G-men. Not a shot was fired. There was no excitement. The trap was set and when the victim walked into it the result was an orderly and quiet the neighborhood wasn't even aware of the event.

Comparison with what Mr. Hoover derides as "bing bang" procedure in operation of the bureau of investigation makes the quiet way look very good indeed. There may be less drama in the "close in" than there is in a running gun fight, but that deficiency is offset by advantages almost too numerous to specify.

For one thing, Bad Man Karpis is alive and able to talk. His captors may be able to find out what he has been doing. Maybe the only good hoodlum is a dead hoodlum, but not for the purposes of the bureau of investigation. Bringing them back alive is better suited to its purpose.

Handicap or Warning?

Is there something peculiar about American business men causing so many of them to be at odds with the Roosevelt administration?

The new deal recovery program is founded on the supposition that if government pumps enough money into business channels the flow of prosperity will resume where it stopped when the boom of the 1920's collapsed.

The national industrial recovery act was an experiment in business stabilization—an idea conceived by business men and greeted enthusiastically by most of them in 1933.

Proprietors of business establishments of all kinds and sizes grant buying power has been created and maintained by federal relief expenditures. The new deal has helped business.

Yet, a majority of business men are hostile to the Roosevelt administration despite the record of helpfulness to which it points so frequently. It is a strange condition.

It happens that the record of the new deal shows something else. Here and there are speeches and acts deeply and sometimes unfairly critical of business men as a distinct group—critical of their methods, their motives, even of their patriotism.

Being only human and ordinary, business men have made the human and ordinary response to such strange antics. They have grown resentful. They have talked about insincerity. They have sensed the Roosevelt administration's lack of confidence in them and have done the natural thing by withdrawing their confidence in the administration.

This mutual antagonism has created and is prolonging a needless and serious situation. If the new deal is trying to do what it is supposed to be doing—produce recovery as quickly as possible—it is giving itself a needless handicap. If, on the other hand, business suspicion of new deal motives is justified, the country is being given a timely warning.

Big Week.

Candidates in the primary, if they have anything to say, are preparing to say it now. This is their big week. A week from Tuesday and the eyes of the nation will turn to Ohio to see what this pivotal state is doing about its political responsibilities in this election year.

It is certain that experts in all parts of the country will submit Ohio's voting to close analysis. When they have reached their conclusions the state will be surprised to hear of some of the significant things it did. Buckeye voters, it must be admitted, don't take their "pivotal state" responsibilities too seriously.

In fact, when they look at the ballots which they will mark next Tuesday, they are at a loss to know just how they would proceed if they did take themselves more seriously. For instance, how would they go about expressing themselves with unmistakable clarity on the subject of presidential candidacies?

Republicans wishing to register a preference for president will find the name of Stephen A. Day, with space under it for a write-in candidate. Democrats will choose between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry Breckinridge. Each ballot, of course, will contain a long list of delegates and alternates pledged to candidates. On the Democratic ballot all delegates and alternates are pledged to Franklin D. Roosevelt, however.

This will be an interesting week. There will be an interesting and important primary a week from today. But it is impossible to escape the impression that the direct primary is far from a satisfactory method of registering the genuine opinions of voters.

Design for Living.

In an era of paternalism in which government shows a desire to control the minutest details of its people's lives, a new unemployment insurance proposal has been made in Columbus. Completing drafting a bill which he calls an "individual family security plan," Sen. J. Ralph Seldner, Youngstown Democrat, asks for compulsory employer and employe contributions to a fund administered by the state. When unemployed, the worker would be entitled to draw from this fund weekly amounts equivalent to half his usual wage.

By obliging employes to contribute, the bill might make them aware of the often obscured fact that always, in the long run, they share cost of burdens apparently foisted upon employers. It might, too, help propagate the currently unpopular idea that the worker needs to feel the stimulus of individual initiative in providing for emergencies. It might, further, help convince workers they cannot lightly cast aside the idea of personal responsibilities, secure in the knowledge that when a crash comes a benevolent government will deal out the necessary dole from employer-contributed funds and not attempt to do more than set a design for living.

But when those advantages have been set down, the senator's proposal appears to be just another paternalistic approach to the question of security. Increasingly that problem will occupy thoughtful persons, but many Americans are still convinced that government-sponsored thrift is not a happy solution.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, May 5, 1926.

The second day of Great Britain's general industrial strike found the nation still in chaos with no signs of peace evident.

Marion county police authorities voiced the opinion that Louis Polifroni, 23, of Senate street, whose body was found floating in the Scioto river near Green Camp, had been beaten to death and robbed.

Special programs were given in St. Mary parochial school and Greenwood and Glenwood public schools in observance of child health week.

Miss Virginia Knapp, 18, member of Harding High school senior class, was crowned queen in the opening scene of the school's annual May festival held at the Grand theater.

A 17-year-old Philadelphia youth was held in the county jail for investigation following his alleged attempted holdup of Alfred Alberts, truck driver for the Marchants Transfer Co.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, May 5, 1916.

Germany's reply to America's ultimatum on the submarine warfare situation was received and general fears were voiced that a break between the two nations was near. In her reply, Germany declared that the United States had discriminated against her in favor of the Allies and that the German government was determined not to give up its most effective weapon, the submarine, although a restriction of its use would be allowed.

Mrs. Katherine Parrott, 90, died at her home in Green Camp.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sprague of Edwards street and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. William Cook of Fountain street.

New Foreign Policy Defined by Hull

Sensible Plan of World Trade Cooperation Seen as Boon to Restoring International Business.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, May 5—It's almost three years since President Roosevelt broke up the world economic conference at London and left Cordell Hull, secretary of state, to explain as best he could a policy of economic isolation such as the new deal was then getting ready to embark upon.

But in three years many things can happen to prove more conclusively than the friends of international cooperation were able to do at that meeting how dangerous can become the policies of "self-containment."

Within the last few days Secretary Hull has delivered a notable speech. He redefines the fundamentals of a sensible policy of world cooperation and he gives in unmistakable language the answer to Secretary Wallace who, early in 1934, outlined the alternatives of national policy with a pamphlet entitled, "America Must Choose."

Mr. Hull reveals that he has chosen. He has taken his position on what American policy should be. The address would be of far-reaching and transcendent importance if one could know that President Roosevelt approves of it and intends to pursue aggressively the course plainly indicated by the speech of his secretary of state.

* * *

"As time goes on," says Mr. Hull, "it becomes increasingly clear that no nation can achieve a full measure of stable economic recovery so long as international trade remains in the state of collapse into which it has been plunged during the years of the depression."

In that sentence Mr. Hull has expressed the philosophy of millions of persons who have opposed various new deal policies because the latter looked toward a self-containment that only meant more and more subsidies to farmers, subsidies to workers, bigger relief rolls and finally government socialization of business as an inevitable result of trying to curtail production and live in the realm of economic scarcity instead of abundance. This not only has come to mean higher and higher prices for consumers without increased wages but has implied an enlargement of governmental powers with coercion virtually an essential to the success of a planned economy.

The alternative which the other school of thought has been insisting upon is a removal of restriction on production, in fact its encouragement, and the stimulus of trade and intercourse between nations so as to absorb our surplus. Somewhere in the world there is use for all the food America can produce and for all its manufactured products. And in America, as a consequence of greater interchange of goods and services, there is buying power and investing power to import certain commodities or to put the surplus of American capital to work in other countries and thus provide an equilibrium of exchange.

* * *

Secretary Hull's condemnation of "self-containment" is unequivocal and forthright. He says:

"The whole post-war period has been characterized by an ever-increasing drift toward economic nationalism, which has expressed itself in a constant growth of barriers to international trade. This drift has become enormously intensified during the past six years, many countries have never ceased to deplore it. Under its impact, the international economic structure of the world has been all but shattered, and individual nations have sought economic improvement more and more by means of purely domestic measures on the basis of a greater degree of self-containment than was ever before consciously attempted.

Now had any anti-new dealer said the foregoing, he would have been accused of "going back to Hoover" and wanting to embrace all the iniquities and inequities of the old deal. Secretary Hull is known to feel that self-containment since 1933 has been a stop-gap policy on the part of the United States and it explains his continued presence in a cabinet that has been engaged in carrying out self-containment policies directed by the President himself.

But Mr. Hull speaks out now and shows the restiveness which he and others of his way of thinking must feel toward a continuation of various policies loosely called the new deal, but really involving government subsidy with money drained from taxpayers in the form of indirect as well as direct taxes and huge borrowings against future generations.

The secretary sees vast unemployment, an impairment of investments and a breakdown on the whole economic system unless the economic distress growing out of a contraction of world trade is cured. He says it breeds "social instability" and opens the way "for the demagogue and the agitator, foments internal strife, and frequently leads to the supplanting of orderly government by tyrannical dictatorships."

This correspondent has written many articles critical of new deal philosophy and has often received letters asking what doctrine he would approve. Secretary Hull's speech is a comprehensive answer. Were its doctrines observed by the party now in power and were a man of Cordell Hull's great ability and determination permitted to carry them out, there would not be an army of unemployed and an unbalanced budget. For Mr. Hull is a realist, a liberal, a practical statesman, and probably the outstanding man in the Democratic administration in his understanding of the complexities of our national and international economic system.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 5—Sometimes the governmental publicity system falls down on the job. For instance, here is Currency Comptroller O'Connor. He has just perfected a new promotional scheme for disposing of the assets of closed banks. Not only that but his scheme may disclose what is wrong with the whole banking business. Yet nary an announcement has been made concerning it.

Basically the new O'Connor plan applies advanced Huey Long theories to banking for the first time. It employs the sound truck technique. The comptroller first conceived last fall the idea of sending these ballyhoo tallyhoes around the country advertising his rummage sales of bank assets. It worked so well at Gulfport, Miss., that he tried it again lately at St. Petersburg and Miami. Now it has become a settled practice.

Giving credit where credit is due, Mr. O'Connor's friends say his success has been stupendous, if not colossal. At St. Petersburg, his medicine show took in $78,000 and, at Miami, $46,000, which are box office records for those two towns.

Discouragement

Mr. O'Connor's Gulfport sound truck traveled 1,800 miles advertising the assets of the closed Gulfport bank. Presumably it went as far at St. Petersburg and Miami as the anti-noise laws of Florida permit. It was augmented by continuous radio announcements, an auto sticker campaign, thousands of form letters and signs painted six feet high.

As Mr. O'Connor's friends point out, his success shows that what is wrong with the banking business is that it is not fire-sale minded. Mr. O'Connor is however, running into the same lack of appreciation suffered by all leaders with too advanced ideas. One banker, when asked what he thought about the scheme, replied:

"I fully expect to hear next that the treasury has purchased a herd of monkeys and employed an army of organ grinders."

Decentralizing

The state department did not similarly fall down on its publicity job in announcing the ratification of the Canadian treaty.

Thirty-three sheets of paper, half the usual typewriter size, were given out, folded in the general announcement. Each sheet contained a separate benefit of the treaty. The first was headed: "Cotton Goods" and recited what cotton products would be benefited. Other half-sheets were labeled: "Glass," "Petroleum," "Aircraft," "Machinery," etc. No two products were on the same sheet.

News men received a little note from the department which read as follows:

"The attached material on concessions obtained from Canada that are of interest to your state, has been prepared in accessible form for your convenience. Similar data as to the interests of each other state will be furnished on request."

In other words, each correspondent was informed of the benefits to his own locality, but not to the benefits to others. Thus is appears that even the state department is decentralizing its international relations into local appeals in accordance with the new decentralization publicity scheme which has been adopted by other government departments.

Hoodwinking

The appointment of Hermann Goering as economic dictator of Germany over Hjalmar Schacht is generally supposed on this side of the Atlantic to mean that Dr. Schacht is on his way out. On the contrary, it represents a victory for him.

The fight between Schacht and the radical Nazis has been bitter. He opposed Jewish persecutions, political murders and the Rhineland occupation on the wholly practical ground that they hurt Germany's foreign credit. Hitler's extremists in the cabinet have been trying to get him out for a long time, but economic brains are not plentiful in the upper crust of Nazism, and Hitler could not afford to lose Schacht.

Schacht is supposed to have told Hitler not long ago that he could not go on wasting his time fighting the radical Nazis and would resign. Hitler persuaded him to stay with the promise that he would try to curb the radical elements.

The Goering appointment does it. Goering, as economic dictator, will sign the decrees, but in reality Goering will not dare to oppose Schacht. It is a good idea, but our officials doubt that it will work. They fully expect trouble between Goering and Schacht.

Grouping

Among the 218 names on the Frazier-Lemke petition are:

Three dead men: The late Representatives Truax, Buckee and Lloyd.

On is retiring from congress: Mrs. Greenway.

Three who are not returning because they are candidates for the senate: Representatives Monaghan, Lee and Utterback.

Representative Hoeppel, who was convicted on a charge of selling a West Point appointment.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, May 5—The American colony, representing the richest phase of Parisian life, continues to be depleted. Not a handful remains. Scarcely any of the social and luncheon clubs of Yankee membership carry on. The Paris Herald's society charter deals mostly with South Americans.

What has happened to Paris so far as Americans are concerned has happened to Monte Carlo, Le Touquet and the entire sweep of the French Riviera. And the shops, restaurants and hotels that depended so largely upon patronage from the states have had to close or winnow a different clientele.

In the same fashion the American art colony in the Montparnasse area has also evaporated. The only fixtures are the American newspaper correspondents and, of course, that lively old time sports chronicler, the incredible Sparrow Robertson.

Paris, with its usual optimistic effervescence, shrugs lightly and declares it's only the depression. Boom times and Paris will be overrun again. But those who know say Americans are hep to other delightful places and it will take Paris, the hussy, years to recapture the old fervor.

* * *

However, Anna Gould and her withered Prince still cling to the marbly pink palace on the edge of the Bois. He totters about the garden in a shoulder cape and she knits. They have never been a part of the American colony, but rather truckled to the Royalist crowd. Prince de Sagan was once one of the flaming young bloods of the boulevard. He liked to wine and dine the stage beauties and was the first Parisian dandy to encircle a huge diamond finger ring around a four-in-hand.

* * *

Diamonds for men, I am told, were in their highest upswing during the Ed Stokes and Jubilee Jim Fiske era. Then a gentleman could sport a fair sized sparkler without being classed a vulgarian. There was a period, too, when it seemed all right for Nat Goodwin, Owen Wister and Bob Davis to wear diamonds. Then the corner saloon keeper made it his badge of opulence and gamblers and crooks copied them.

One of the finest homes in the Paris Bois is owned by Pierre Cartier, the New York jeweler. But there's a legend he stays at a hotel on his visits to Paris now. As the story goes, he returned there after several years absence, looking forward to being home again. His butler, after greeting him, inquired how long he was to remain. His valet, while dressing, asked him the same thing, and so did several other servants. It was not the sort of welcome he expected, and somehow he completely lost a taste for what had long been a pleasant home.

* * *

Then there was the "mourning suite" at the old Waldorf, consisting of six rooms with three baths. In it passed away the beloved wife of a retired manufacturer. The couple had lived there since the hotel opened, but when she was gone he could no longer linger in the environment. But until the hotel was torn down he maintained the apartment and nothing was changed. Each year at the anniversary of her death and at the hour she expired he went there and sat by the bedside for a brief spell, just as he did when he lost her. Keeping rendezvous with a sacred memory!

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

HUNDRED YEARS AGO

A hundred years ago the 21st legislature was organizing for action—the session covering 1832-3. There were few noted men in either branch of that legislature. If there were any men with gubernatorial ambitions in the 21st legislature, their hopes were never realized.

One important action of this legislature was the election of Thomas Morris of Clermont county to be United States senator to succeed Benjamin Ruggles. Morris was a member of the Ohio senate then—the one member entitled to be referred to as a man with a future.

With the Candidates

This group of sketches is one of a series being published by The Star to acquaint its readers with candidates for county and district offices whose names will appear on the May 12 primary ballots.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS

Interest in the pre-primary congressional campaign in the Eighth district is centering on the four-sided contest for the Republican nomination. There is no contest for the Democratic nomination, Congressman Brooks Fletcher being unopposed.

The congressional district is made up of Marion, Wyandot, Crawford, Hardin, Morrow and Hancock counties.

Miles H. McLaughlin of Nevada, one of the four Republican candidates, is an attorney and a farmer. Mr. McLaughlin, after being admitted to the bar, maintained a practice in Kansas City and Denver, Colo., 14 years before moving to Nevada. He is unmarried.

Mr. McLaughlin said he is "familiar with the problems of agriculture and committed to action for its relief." Of his campaign platform he also said, "I would restore to congress its constitutional rights, including the issue and control of money. I am a supporter of the principles of the Republican party and of a presidential candidate whose official action is for the best interests of the people of the nation as a whole."

* * *

Grant E. Mouser Jr., of Marion, also seeking the Republican nomination, formerly held for two terms the office he seeks. He also was city solicitor of Marion and served two years as assistant attorney general of Ohio. He and Mrs. Mouser and their three children live at 527 East Church street.

Mr. Mouser, outlining his campaign platform, said:

"We are entering the seventh year of the depression. On July 1, 1936, the national debt will reach the astounding figure of thirty-five billions of dollars. 12,500,000 heads of families in America are out of employment affecting 50,000,000 men, women and children of the country.

"The congress of the United States provides that government securities will be exempt from federal taxes, and in addition thereto the government is paying interest on said securities from 1¾ to 3 per cent. There must be a day of reckoning, and through this system of circumventing federal taxes the burden will be placed on the American people.

"The depression has wiped out savings and the accumulation of the thrifty so that 95 per cent of the American people are now faced with the question of social security.

"I am against this system of borrowing money tax exempt and will insist by my vote that money for relief of the unemployed and the aged shall come from a form of direct taxation which will not continue the policy of placing us in debt.

"Older people must be retired in order that young men and women may have the opportunity of exercising initiative by obtaining a job. This can only come about by a redistribution of the money of the country, by stopping the present policy of borrowing and issuing tax exempt securities and the circumvention of the payment of income taxes.

"We cannot have real prosperity until the rank and file of the American people have a purchasing power through wages obtained from jobs. I shall work and vote toward this end.

French Crow, Marion attorney and former postmaster of Marion, is one of the candidates for the Republican nomination. Mr. Crow served as tax commissioner in Marion county under appointment of the late Gov. Willis. He is making his first bid for an elective public office.

He and Mrs. Crow, parents of seven children, live at 645 South Prospect street.

Mr. Crow outlined his campaign platform as follows:

"When I announced by candidacy for congress on the Republican ticket I pledged my sincere and honest effort to serve the needs of all people of the Eighth district. I did not then and will not now give idle and insincere promises in a time of crisis like the present. It is time we look forward to putting agriculture and industry on a sound and permanent basis without which there will be no permanent prosperity to the Eighth congressional district whose needs may be said to constitute about the average of the country. We are living in a period lacking all confidence in government—paying bidden taxes, heretofore unheard of in time of peace, but not asking ourselves whether our money so converted is being used to restore a permanent prosperity to agriculture—or in industry, create jobs for our unemployed that will give every man who so desires an honest day's pay for an honest day's work—or whether shortened vision and discouragement and even despair are seeing us tomorrow no better off than we are today.

"It is time for us to realize that a stable currency and a balanced budget will put more men to work than any emergency measure so far undertaken, for if our greatest progress is to be judged by figures alone that progress in the last three years has certainly been in our national debt. Durable goods and construction industries are lagging far behind—mainly for lack of confidence in the future. The machine age has not utterly destroyed jobs—for new industries are constantly being opened up. The time for emergency has passed. It is only necessary for recovery that we cease experimenting—that we go forward—that we restore confidence.

J. Wesley Masters of north of Edison in Morrow county is in the four-sided campaign for the Republican nomination. He is a farmer and is the father of three daughters.

Mr. Masters, in outlining his campaign platform, said:

"Private enterprise should be encouraged and not discouraged or hampered by government intervention. I favor complete abolishment of the great number of bureaus and commissions now on the federal payroll which must eventually be paid for by the average farmer and business man.

"I believe in full local control and administration of relief funds and feel the government must be made to live within its income just as individuals. I am a firm believer in representative government. Our American people should today stand squarely behind the Constitution of the United States or as it may be amended in the procedure outlined therein. I will not be a rubber stamp or dominated by professional politicians or lobbyists. I have no personal platforms other than common honesty and common sense. I will never vote to spend the people's money unless I know where it is going and what it is to be used for."

Congressman Fletcher, unopposed for the Democratic nomination, lives at 234 Thew avenue in Marion. He is a former newspaper publisher, organizer and director of business forums and a public speaker. He is married.

Mr. Fletcher, seeking reelection on his record as congressman, did not issue a campaign platform statement.

Social Affairs

A "SPRINGTIME FROLIC" closed the season of the Jolly Dancing club last evening at Schwinger's hall. The 26 couples present wore sports attire.

The club will have a summer social affair, probably in August.

FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY MEMBERS and guests attended the annual inspection of Lydia Chapter No. 53, Order of Eastern Star, last evening in the Masonic temple.

A reception from 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock at the temple, with the chapter officers in the receiving line, preceded a dinner at the First Presbyterian church. Spring flowers, Maypoles, candles and small crepe paper umbrellas filled with apple blossoms, all blending in pastel shades of colors appropriate to the Order of Eastern Star, made the tables unusually attractive.

Mrs. Harriet Rein of Youngstown, worthy grand matron of the grand chapter of Ohio, and the inspecting officer, headed the list of distinguished visitors. Others were Mrs. Minnie Lathrop of Dover and Mrs. Laura Magrew of Columbus, past grand matrons; Fred L. Carhart of Marion, past grand patron; Mrs. Lyda Alexander of Columbus, grand representative of Georgia; Mrs. Hattie Brodie of Cleveland, grand representative of Tennessee; Mrs. Mabel Carson of Delaware, grand representative of Puerto Rico; Mrs. Daisy Miller of Frankfort, grand representative of Scotland; Miss Marie Hamilton of Circleville, associate grand matron; Miss Jessie Peck of Fostoria, grand conductress; F. R. Devore of Columbus, associate grand patron; Mrs. Edith Conger of Dayton, grand marshal; Mrs. Ella Kiederle of Cleveland, grand chaplain; Mrs. Marianne Bower of Columbus, grand Ruth; Mrs. Helen Wilson of Bellville, deputy grand matron of District 5; Mrs. Bessie Deck of Lima, deputy grand matron of District 8; Mrs. Flossie Mather of Marysville, deputy grand matron of District 11; Mrs. Mabel Boylan of Columbus, deputy grand matron of District 17.

Other Guests

Worthy matrons and worthy patrons were present from Delaware, Columbus, Bucyrus, Crestline, Dayton, Sycamore, Fostoria, Van Wert, Upper Sandusky, Cleveland, Kenton, LaRue, Sandusky, Richwood, Bellefontaine, Ada, Ashley, Galion, Findlay, Caledonia, Lakewood, Granville and Ashtabula.

Also among the guests were past worthy matrons and worthy patrons of Lydia chapter, Mrs. Anna Good of Columbus, who is president of the Ohio Order of Eastern Star hospital circle, and Mrs. Lena Gillespie of LaRue, president of District 11.

The officers of Marion Bethel No. 2, Job's Daughters, formed an honorary court following Mrs. Rein's greeting by Mrs. Zelda Sweney, worthy matron of Lydia chapter. The honored queen of the bethel, Miss Anna Marie Hastings, greeted Mrs. Rein and presented her with an arm bouquet, and then turned to the conductress of Lydia chapter, Mrs. Florence Wood, and greeted her as grand guardian of Job's Daughters of Ohio and presented her with an arm bouquet. The grand matron was escorted to the east through the court of honor formed by the Job's Daughters.

Mrs. Goldie Swope was soloist for the exemplification of the initiatory work on one candidate. Mrs. Rein in her report praised the work of the officers of the chapter and gave the chapter a grade of "excellent."

Refreshments were served in the dining room following the inspection.

A group of officers of the chapter entertained visiting dignitaries who had been overnight guests with a breakfast this morning at 11 o'clock at Ringer's inn on the Prospect road. Covers were laid for 20.

Members of the All Arts club of Prospect closed their season with a dinner and program at Ringer's inn last evening. Mrs. Hugh K. Clifton of Columbus was an out-of-town guest. Mrs. W. C. Sivey conducted the devotionals on the theme, "The Miracle of Life."

Mrs. Thomas Finefrock, retiring president, presented the gavel to the incoming president, Mrs. E. F. Lauer. The new president announced the following chairmen and committee for the 1936-37 season: Mrs. Thomas Finefrock, art; Mrs. F. M. Hazen, civic; Mrs. W. H. Herr, welfare; Mrs. B. H. Gast, conservation; Mrs. E. R. Rector, devotion; Mrs. E. E. Wottring and Mrs. Annetta Winter, finance; Mrs. C. F. Swaney, flower; Miss Ruth Hecker, Mrs. C. E. Secrest and Mrs. D. F. Stone, membership; Mrs. Wilfred Knickel and Mrs. Charles Collmer, music; Mrs. W. C. Sivey and Mrs. Raymond Stone, social.

Mrs. John Boxwell opened the program hour with a paper, "Jamaica," Isle of Many Rivers," and humorous readings were given by several of the club members in a program broadcast over station "Static." Mrs. Wilfred Knickel presided as announcer. A special meeting to make plans for the annual garden party will be held June 1 with Mrs. E. P. Adams.

Mrs. R. W. Brown and Mrs. John Mosher won honors in games and contests conducted at a meeting of the M. N. L. club Monday evening with Mrs. R. E. Burnette of Chicago avenue. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Lantz. Mrs. Mosher of Clover avenue will entertain the club on June 1.

Miss Frances Paulling of Edgewood drive was hostess last evening to the C. W. N. Bridge club. Mrs. Frederick G. Smith and Miss Marcella McMahan won high and second honors for scores. The hostess' mother, Mrs. R. H. Paulling, assisted in serving lunch. Miss McMahan will entertain the club in two weeks at her home on Bellefontaine avenue.

Relatives and friends gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berry of 582 East Fairming street for a 6 o'clock dinner to celebrate the hosts' first wedding anniversary. The evening was spent socially. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Berry, Mrs. Henry Oriana, Mrs. Flora Hatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Oriana, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cull Mr. and Mrs. George Butler, Arwin Berry, Eileen Berry, Virgil Berry, Martha Butler, Marion Fields of Richwood, Robert Eugene Cull and Evelyn Cull.

Miss Imogene Dean, Vera Knochel and Margaret Kline were voted into membership in the Searchlight Literary club of Prospect at a meeting last evening with Misses Esther and Freda Hull. Miss Florence Almendinger read a paper on "Attractive Lawns and Porches" and Miss Esther Hull read a paper on "Summer Gardens." Miss Lucile Cheney conducted devotionals. The program included a piano selection by Mrs. Sarah Smith.

The club will have a house picnic May 15 at the home of Miss Almendinger.

Miss Joan Boyd was named president of the Junior Lecture-Recital club at the last meeting of the year, last evening at the home of the senior counselor, Mrs. James C. Woods of Lafayette street. Miss Kathleen Kern was named vice president, Miss Donna Ruth Sinning, secretary, and Miss Lucille Stuckey, treasurer. Miss Grace Kline of the senior music club will serve as counselor next year. Miss Jean Brillhart, retiring president, was presented a past president's pin. Two new members, Miss Betty Clagett and Miss Jane Thomas, were enrolled. A contribution of five dollars was made to the Artists fund of the National Federation of Music clubs. During a program hour Miss Constance Butterworth gave a paper on "Folk Music" and Miss Donna Ruth Sinning played a piano solo, "Arabesque." Miss Evelyn Benge sang "The Rosary," accompanied at the piano by Miss Butterworth, and Miss Jean Feaver played a piano number, "Rustle of Spring." Refreshments were served.

Members of the Jolly Tyme club entertained their husbands and families at a party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Bowser of West Fairgrounds street, Saturday night.

The men's award in euchre was won by Mr. Bowser. Other euchre awards were Mrs. Esther Schrader, first, Mrs. Ida Wise, second, Mrs. Iva Bowser, third, Mrs. James Bishop, lone hand, Mrs. Mary Brown, consolation.

A potluck supper was served. The club will meet Wednesday, May 13, at the home of Mrs. Maggie England on North Greenwood street.

NEFF REELECTED TO BOARD OF HEALTH

Martel Man Again Named Member of County Group.

William N. Neff of Martel yesterday was reelected a member of the county board of health for a five-year term at a meeting of the district advisory council.

The council, composed of the mayors of the villages in the county and the presidents of the boards of township trustees, met in the office of Dr. N. Sifrit, county health commissioner, in compliance with the law that requires them to meet the first Monday in May to elect members to the board of health.

There are five members, each elected for a five-year period.

PUPILS WIN HONORS

Music pupils of Howard M. Temple, music supervisor at Stivers High school in Dayton and former supervisor of music in the Marion public schools, won exceptional honors in a district high school elimination held last week in Oxford, O., according to word received by Marion friends. His students in voice and instrumental work received four "superior" marks, four "excellent-plus" marks, four "excellents" and three "very good" marks and his soprano soloist won a $100 scholarship to the Otterbein college conservatory of music.

Dr. J. T. Fullington on Club's Annual Guest Day Program

LITERATURE today is no different than literature of 2,500 years ago, except that the people, the surroundings and conditions are different, Dr. James T. Fullington, director of the department of English at Ohio State university and a former Marysville resident, told members and guests of Le Mercure club at the club's annual guest day party last evening at the home of Mrs. Paul D. Michel of 531 Bellefontaine avenue.

Dr. Fullington's subject was "The Unchanging Stream in Life as Mirrored in Literature."

Miss Dorothy Briggs, president, welcomed the guests, after which Mrs. Paul Knauss, retiring president of the Marion County Federation of Woman's clubs, gave a short talk on fine arts day and introduced her successor, Mrs Everett B. Grigsby.

Preceding Dr. Fullington's talk there were two piano selections played by Morris Kline, "Prelude in C-Sharp Minor," by Rachmaninoff and the second movement of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

Miss Briggs, retiring president, and Mrs. B. H. Taylor, who will serve as president for the 1936-37 season, presided in the dining room during the refreshments hour. The house was decorated with snapdragons.

The guests were received by Miss Briggs, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. H. Alfred Donithen, Miss Philomen Gregg and Mrs. Michel.

Guests were Mrs. Charles Kauffman and Miss Mary Kauffman of Columbus, Mrs. Alice Boyd, Mrs. B. R. Prichard, Mrs. O. G. Briggs, Mrs. Bird Jacoby, Mrs. Frank Barnhill, Mrs. D. A. Neville, Mrs. Alice Bowers, Mrs. Frank Glosser, Mrs. V. H. Michel, Mrs. K. M. Bower, Mrs. George G. Kleinmaier, Mrs. Glenn Penry, Mrs. C. C. Roberts, Mrs. Arthur Harris, Mrs. W. A. Dennis, Mrs. George Alber, Mrs. James Mann, Mrs. Wilbur Symes, Mrs. J. M. Hamilton, Mrs. Paul Schweinley, Mrs. Edwin Spohn, Mrs. Lillian Kent, Mrs. Clifford Clark, Mrs. L. K. McGinnis, Mrs. D. W. Rauhauser, Rosanna Crow, Margery Eymon and Mauvette Carlisa.

The club season will close with a house picnic on May 18 at Ringer's inn on the Prospect road, with Mrs. Floyd Wideman and Mrs. J. L. Grissinger as hostesses.

DAYTON TEACHERS GET 2 WEEKS PAY

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., May 5 — With eight weeks salary due them, teachers in Dayton public schools today were to receive two weeks pay, as of March 13.

The board of education received $200,000 in current real estate taxes from the county auditor last night, and immediately adopted a resolution for part-settlement of the debt.

Non-educational employes of the school system also will be paid—for work up to April 3. Both payrolls total $115,000.

By The Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq, May 5 — Government troops and army bombers moved today against rebels who cut the Baghdad-Basra railway in the turbulent Rumaitha district.

Officials announced revolting tribesmen in that section fired on a locomotive and tore up rails of the line running from the capital to Basra, off the Persian gulf.

Nature Study Club And Guests Hear State Museum Head

MOUND builders and the part they played in the early history of Ohio was the subject presented in an illustrated talk by H. C. Shetrone, director of the Ohio State Archaeological museum, Columbus, at the annual guest day party given by members of the Burroughs Nature Study club last evening. Miss Vedith Babb was the acting hostess and the club members and guests were entertained at White Oak farm. Mr. Shetrone's talk was on "Our First Ohioans." Completing the program was a group of voice numbers by Mrs. Eugene H. Moore, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh. She sang "Bird Song," Curran, "Joy," Cadman, and "'Tis Enough," Edwards. Refreshments were served.

Guests included Mr. Shetrone, Dr. M. A. Mook, of Ohio Wesleyan university, and Richard Morgan, who is associated with the museum, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Slack, Mrs. W. C. Wingett, Mrs. Wallace Wilson, Mrs. Alice Gurley, Mrs. Anne Sutherland, Mrs. Robert Caulfield, Mrs. Merle Hughes, Mrs. Harry Brookshire, Mrs. Carl Fisher, Mrs. Lulu B. CHURCH SCHOOL AWARDS MADE Certificates Presented at Closing Session of Lutheran Teachers' Institute.

The 1935-36 Marion Lutheran Sunday School Teachers' Institute, which opened last October, was closed last night at the Emanuel Lutheran church with a lecture by Dr. G. C. Gast of Capital university in Columbus on "Minor Prophets," and the distribution of certificates and stars to those who had been present for six of the eight monthly sessions.

Fifteen certificates were awarded and 42 stars were given those who had received certificates in previous years. The 19 awards received by the Emanuel will be presented Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Schillinger. The number of awards received by other churches are as follows: Trinity rural church, Marion, one; Windfall church near Cardington, nine; Waldo, three; Prospect, four; North Salem, one; Bethany near Upper Sandusky, two; Upper Sandusky, five; Galion, seven; Cardington, six.

Adopt New Plans

It was voted to conduct the 1936-37 institute under a different plan, with sessions each Monday night in October and April, instead of conducting meetings once a month during the winter.

Dr. Gast discussed the prophets Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi.

Nahum, whose contemporaries were Isaiah, Hosea and Micah, prophesied to comfort God's people who were worried because of the rising power of Assyria, by predicting the downfall of the great empire, Dr. Gast said.

He pointed out that Habakkuk, whose name means "the embraced," comforted the devout of Judah by prophesying the downfall of Chaldea, and that Zephaniah's purpose was to proclaim the enormity of wickedness announce the imminent desolation, and predict the overthrow of enemies and point to future blessings.

Four Messages

The book of "Haggai" Dr. Gast explained, consists of four messages, each of which refers to the rebuilding of the Temple and each containing both reproof and encouragement, reproof to the people for being indifference with regard to rebuilding the House of God and selfishly erecting ceiled houses for themselves.

Zechariah, in a series of visions, symbols and sublime poetical figures, encouraged the rebuilding of the Temple. Dr. Gast emphasized, and Malachi called to repentance the people who had failed to pay the tithe, had married foreign wives and were doubting all of God's promises, showing them that the great day of Jehovah will come in glory for those that believe but fire for the unbeliever.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Frank Fralich of Blaine avenue, Mrs. O. V. Roby of South Vine street, Mrs. Harry S. Elliott of South State street and Mrs. Elizabeth Eisle of near Agosta returned yesterday from Athens where they attended the annual weekend program honoring mothers of students at Ohio university. The program began last Friday and extended through Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Roe Myers and family of Kinsman, O., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Bolander of South Prospect street and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Myers of Perry street. Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Roe Myers, attended an instrumental music contest held in Delaware Saturday night. Entered in the class for pupils of the eighth grade, he was awarded a diploma as the outstanding snare drummer with the highest grade of the group.

$100 REWARD

If You Show Us An Electrolux Gas Refrigerator That Has Blown Up!

Let's put all our cards on the table concerning a matter that interests you as well as ourselves. The leadership of gas refrigeration in 1936 has cut deeply into the sales of other types of refrigeration. Nearly all other dealers have proved themselves fair competition, but always there are one or two who "can't take it." And so, someone starts a whispering campaign about the Electrolux gas refrigerator.

In recent weeks our salesmen have encountered a number of prospects who say they like every feature of the Electrolux except they are afraid it will blow up. Who starts such ideas? The Gas Company has never heard of one blowing up. Neither has the Servel Corporation which manufacturers the Electrolux gas refrigerator. The unit is tested to withstand 20 times the pressure of its normal operation. For safety, it has carried the approval of the Fire Underwriters Board in Chicago since 1927.

To back our claims for safe operation of the Electrolux, we are offering you, or anyone else, $100 in cash as a reward for being the first to show us any Electrolux gas refrigerator that has blown up by reason of its operation. Naturally we must exclude, as would manufacturers of other refrigerators, cases where destruction of the building or evidence of forcing the unit by external physical means would result in destruction of the unit. With the safety question thus settled, we invite your consideration of gas refrigeration on a basis of its ability to preserve food, to freeze ice cubes and desserts at the lowest cost — and to do it silently without the use of any moving parts.

Gypsy Weather

SYNOPSIS: After Elinor Fleming jilted him, Rupert Joris married a girl who came late at night to the old Joris estate looking for a lawyer. Rupert was drunk at the time; now he is sober and resentful. Dirk, his brother, knows the girl, whose name is Hope Devine. She has been making a living as a circus rider—but she is of good family. Rupert expects to obtain an annulment without trouble, and somewhat to his surprise Dirk finds himself on the girl's side. For the girl is lovely.

CHAPTER TWELVE

Disagreeable Duty

"SINCE it was your own idea," Dirk said, "I'd let it be a solution, annulment or not. You'd have to pay your gambling debts. You might as well pay this one."

"Thanks," said Rupert. "I'll look after that end of it, if you don't mind. I suppose she's in the house. Ask her to come in here."

Dirk urged him to wait.

"A little later. Your head will be clearer, and the chances are you'll be shaved."

"I'll talk to her now," said Rupert. His hand moved to the bell.

"I'll tell her," Dirk agreed. The less the servants saw of this, the better.

He went down the hall, and knocked at the tower-room. A voice bade him enter, and he opened the door to see Hope Standing beside the window. She wore the same black dress with the deep white collar. Her hair was smooth, not moist and curling as it had been last night. She looked small and elfish beside the immense furniture. Her eyes met his, and she waited.

Dirk disliked his errand.

"I watched for you at breakfast," he said. "But you had gone out."

"To church," she said.

"So Mary told me. I had been out to look for you. I thought you had run away."

She smiled.

"Where would I run?"

"To the circus, I supposed. The circus is gone. Did you know?"

"Yes. They are traveling south. I could have gone with them, of course....Your brother—does he want to see me?"

Dirk wondered if she had overheard their conversation. He glanced toward the door between the two rooms, a door that had been put in during his grandfather's final illness. It was of thinner, frailer structure than the other doors in Lowrie. It was closed, he noticed, and the bolt had been drawn.

"As a matter of fact, he does," Dirk said, "I hope you won't mind going to him. He's not very well."

She came over to him.

"What's he going to do?"

"I hardly know. He's talking of annulment. In that case, you have your rights."

"Rights?"

"You could make it difficult for him, if you wanted to. Publicity, and that sort of thing."

She said in a low voice,

"I wouldn't do that."

"No, but he doesn't know you wouldn't. You have your rights, your monetary rights. He must pay for his prank."

A light came into her eyes making them bright and eager. Her eye-lids narrowed slightly. Dirk said at once,

"Don't make settlement difficult. Publicity is your weapon and you can't afford to use it. If you make things too hard he may try to find something in your motives, in your life. It wouldn't be hard for him to find the circus."

• • •

She admitted this.

"At the same time, I want you to have justice. You married him in good faith, and he has no right to throw you out next morning. I'll be in the room while he talks to you; he'll keep me there as a witness. I'll stand where he can't see me, and if you can manage to look at me each time before you answer him, I'll try to convey to you—you must manage that all the proposals come from him. You are merely to accept or refuse. Understand?"

Her eyes searched his.

"You are siding against your brother," she said.

"This is not a battle," Dirk informed her. "You came here to get a lawyer. You still need one. Do you understand my instructions?"

Yes, she understood. She would try to follow them.

"All right, then. Ready?"

Rupert glanced at the girl as she entered. The hand holding his cigaret was unsteady. Dirk was closing the door, and Rupert said to him.

"Leave us alone, please."

Dirk, surprised, stood long enough to catch the girl's eye. He went then, leaving with her a reassuring smile. Her eyes continued to rest on the door when he had closed it. Rupert's voice called her back.

"Won't you sit down?"

She took a chair close to the door. Again he glanced at her, surprising revulsion in her eyes. He was conscious for a moment of his uncombed, unshaven state, aware too that he could not have looked much better last night. Why, then, had she married him? Or was the revolted look mere acting? She was a brown, small pixie of a girl, a type he did not care for.

"You realize," he said, "that I was not sane last night?"

Rather surprisingly she answered,

"Yes, I realize."

"Then you realize, too," he added, "that it won't hold. What are your terms for getting out quietly?"

She was silent.

"You need money," he explained. "How much do you want?"

She answered.

"I need money, yes. And I think you should pay for...your prank. But I don't want to get out ... quietly, or any other way. I want to stay here."

"It's out of the question," said Rupert. "I'm talking about annulment."

"I understand. You can have it annulled if you want to. It wasn't my idea to marry you, but I did it in good faith. And I went in and got my trunk. I'm all unpacked, and it will be hard to move right away."

"You were rather sudden about getting your trunk, weren't you?"

Who had told her to do that?

"I think not. I had no idea that you intended to put me out. I suppose you don't know what it feels like not to have a home, and then suddenly to find one."

"I suppose not," agreed Rupert. "But I believe you have a home... elsewhere."

"I had a home," she corrected. "I cut all ties when I came to *New York. My father is a clergy*man...as I told you last night... one of the old-fashioned sort. He wanted me to stay at home, and I wanted to go. I was here teaching music."

"I see. My brother has looked into your story. I have no reason to question anything you say, even your statement that our so-called marriage was not your idea. But it's out of the question for you to stay here, pending the annulment, or after it. If I give you money you can find a home. Suppose I pay you five thousand dollars."

She looked at him, silent, gone rather pale. Apparently the sum spelled wealth to her. Rupert, who had been ready to bid for his freedom on an ascending scale, realized that he might have had it even more cheaply.

"You agree," he said, "to leave, if I give you a check for that amount?"

She agreed. "When may I have it?" she asked.

He looked at his watch.

"At 4 o'clock," he said. "I will come to your room then with a witness. I will give you the check in return for your written agreement."

She rose, and Rupert, who had not sat down, opened the door for her.

"I may stay longer," she added.

He agreed to that. After all she could not cash the check until tomorrow.

A pool of sunshine which streamed in from the hall below, Dirk noted, the only cheerful spot in the house. Outside the tower-room the hall was dim, and Dirk, looking back, saw that the door of the tower-room. Dirk had been right, he was thinking. Dirk had appeared over-solicitous about the girl—it was natural, of course, convinced as he was of her innocence—so he—Rupert—had shut him out.

But Dirk had been right in his deductions, and obviously in his findings too. The girl was respectable (Rupert's mind veered slightly from the word "decent") and inexperienced to the point of naivete. She would make no trouble.

They would dispose of her, perhaps less expeditiously, but certainly as effectually, as one clears a stray cat out of the house.

CITY TEACHERS HOLD ELECTION

Mr. Lee, an instructor of senior high school subjects, presented a report on the 12-month salary payment plan which was studied by a committee of which he is chairman. Cecil Gabler, president of the association during the 1935-36 school year, presided at the meeting.

Other officers elected are: Miss Mabel Turney, vice president; Miss Mary Joe Stafford, secretary; Stewart Shipman, treasurer. Miss Grace Colvin, instructor at Vernon Heights Junior High school, was elected a delegate to the National Education Association's national convention to be held in Portland, Ore., during July. Miss Philoman Gregg was elected alternate.

No action was taken following a report of a study of the 12-month salary payment plan which revealed that Marion teachers are not in favor of it. A straw vote taken earlier this week was preceded by communications with other school systems where the 12-month plan is now in effect. Under the plan, salaries would be paid in 12 monthly installments, instead of over the nine months of actual teaching as at present.

Russell Snare, president of the city council, addressed the group on the 3.2 mill levy to be presented to Marion voters at the primaries May 12.

ETHIOPIANS ATTACK OHIO MISSIONARIES

Four from New Concord Beat Off Bandits After Slaying One of Them.

By The Associated Press

NEW CONCORD, O., May 5—Muskingum college officials and members of the United Presbyterian Board of American Missions remained apprehensive today over the fate of four missionaries in Addis Ababa who were attacked yesterday at their headquarters by mobs sacking and burning the Ethiopian capital.

Dr. Thomas A. Lambie of New Concord, head of the Ethiopian missionary service, was attacked by bandits who were beaten off after one of their number had been slain and another wounded. Dr. Lambie was personal physician to Emperor Haile Selassie who fled the capital.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

F. E. TOWNSEND

By The Associated Press

Just what part of Dr. F. E. Townsend and his cohorts will play in the elections this year is an unknown and unsettling factor for congressmen seeking re-election.

The Townsend old age pension plan gained much momentum last winter and an advocate of the idea in Michigan was elected to congress where a persistent Townsend bloc materialized.

Then the plan was subjected to a congressional investigation. Dissention broke in the Townsend ranks precipitating the resignation of co-founder R. E. Clements. Investigators promised further disclosures.

Congressional candidates wonder if the investigation has depleted the doctor's ranks.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Seeks Lillian's Aid in Decoding Secret Note.

I MUST FIND Lillian immediately. This was my first thought as I turned from the pseudo junkman who had brought me the secret code letter. I knew, of course, that a letter in code was either from my father, or from someone to whom he had given one of the codes which he knew I could decipher.

My need of Lillian was not for the deciphering of the code. That I could manage myself. Indeed, under my father's tutelage, I had had almost uncanny luck in code work upon several occasions of moment in our lives.

But with the uncertainty of my father's fate before me—we had had no word from him since he vanished into the night upon his secret mission—I felt that I could not bear to decipher that code letter with its possible dread message unless I had someone I loved with me.

Rather Have Dicky

Of course, if Dicky had been at home, I should have gone to him. Rather, I reflected whimsically, I should have waited meekly to see if he came to me, for the junkman had asked first for Dicky, and then for Harry Underwood, turning the code letter over to me only when assured the men were away from home and would not be back until late.

But in Dicky's absence I wanted Lillian, and pulling the letter inside my dress, I paused only long enough by the door to tell Jim of "the junkman's" request.

"Give him some old clothing and magazines and papers, Jim—whatever he wants," I said. "He wants his departure to look natural."

"I get you," Jim said comprehending. "I'll see to him," and then I was past him and skimming up the stairs to my own room, seeing, as I passed the outdoor balcony, that Mother Graham and Lillian were still out there.

I knew better than to summon Lillian away from that session of "daisy making." I must wait until I could contrive to make her exit appear a perfectly natural thing.

Eases Tension

With fingers that I could not keep from trembling, I locked the code letter away in a drawer of my bedroom desk, and bathed my face and hands in cold water, for I felt as if I were burning with fever. Then, with grim determination to achieve nonchalance at any cost, I crossed leisurely to the balcony.

Mother Graham and Lillian were sitting close together, with my mother-in-law's head bent over the daisy wheel in Lillian's hand. Lillian's face was tense, with the strained, almost bewildered expression which it wears when she is playing cards, all the varieties of which, save solitaire, she detests. Harry calls it "Lil's kid-about-to-be-slapped expression," and viewing her unhappy face, my treacherous risibles almost betrayed me as I membered the gibe.

My mother-in-law's features, grimly determined, but tinged with disapproval, told me that she was not particularly enjoying the session, either, and I had no further compunctions about disturbing them as I said with forced gayety:

"How is the daisy factory coming along?"

There was ludicrous relief in the eyes of both women, and, Lillian laughed with nervous gayety.

"Public Benefactor No. 1," she exclaimed. "Your mother-in-law is worn to a frazzle trying to teach me how to make these dratted daisies. They look so easy, but there is a certain knack to them which she has to perfection, but I have five thumbs—count 'em—on either hand. But I'm game, I'll stick here all day if necessary, but I hope for her sake you have come to summon me away from here. She must be a wreck, poor dear."

Mother's Bedtime

"I'm nothing of the kind," my mother-in-law asserted, but her tone lacked conviction. "And you're really doing very well," she said in the voice and manner one uses for social fibs.

"So sorry to disappoint you," I told Lillian mockingly, but my eyes flashed her a far different signal, telling her that I needed her at once. "but I didn't come to disturb this session, merely to watch it. But, mother"—ostentatiously looking at my watch—"do you know that it is past time for your morning nap? I didn't think of it until just this minutes, but you know Dr. Gibson won't like it a bit if you miss it."

I was speaking only the truth, for the wise physician has prescribed two daily resting periods for my mother-in-law, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon, and she finds that they are wonderfully beneficial in conserving her strength. But I wondered, as the words left my lips, whether her jealination or her stern sense of duty as a teacher would prevail.

MEXICAN POLITICAL TURMOIL INCREASES

Defeated Candidates in State Primaries Critical of Party Procedure.

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, May 5—Grumbling over the National Revolutionary (government) party's electoral decisions grew louder today in Mexico.

Although President Lazaro Cardenas' personal leadership was unchallenged, defeated candidates in several state primaries were openly critical of the party's procedure in picking winners.

In Vera Cruz, where Deputy Manlio Fabio Altamirano was declared the government party candidate for governor, an open revolt against the organization that has ruled Mexico's politics for the last decade appeared to be developing.

Joaquin Munoz, another member of congress who ran against Fabio Altamirano with agrarian and labor support, resigned from the party and was reported to have agreed to join other unsuccessful candidates in an effort to defeat the government standard-bearer at the approaching elections.

In the state of Puebla just south of the capital, workers, described as bitter at the party's selection of Gen. Maximino Avila Camacho for governor over their candidate Gilberto Bosques, were reported preparing to march on the capital to protest.

THINGS LOOK BETTER IN COAL PAY FIGHT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 5—Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, was sufficiently encouraged today by developments in the anthracite coal wage conference to declare "things look better."

McGrady, who has participated since last Thursday in conferences of operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers hastened to add:

"I mean, they are not farther apart. Nothing definite has been agreed upon."

Striving to avert a suspension of operations in the Pennsylvania industry employing 106,000 men, McGrady planned another conference today. Sessions have been held since Feb. 24 in an effort to write a new contract.

LAST RITES HELD FOR S. R. REBER

The funeral of Samuel R. Reber, former city service director and city councilman, was conducted today at 2:30 p. m. at the home at 626 Mt. Vernon avenue. Mr. Reber died Saturday after a long illness. The service was in charge of Rev. Franklin O. Markley of the Epworth M. E. church. Burial was made in the Marion cemetery.

RIOTS SPREAD THROUGH SPAIN

Dozen Catholic Churches, Schools and Monasteries Destroyed by Fire.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, May 5—Nearly two score persons were wounded and valuable church property was destroyed yesterday in the most violent anti-clerical rioting in Spain since the left election victory in February.

Rioters set fire to more than a dozen Roman Catholic churches, schools and monasteries. The violence began when rumors were spread among leftists that nuns had distributed poisoned candy to girls in their charge.

Two nuns were wounded when they came into the line of fire as they led children from a burning convent school.

Capital Hard Hit

The disorders centered in the capital, but there also were scenes of violence in the provinces of Cadiz.

Heavy forces of shock police were powerless to cope with mobs of rioting extremists, aroused by the whispered rumors the Catholic clergy was "poisoning children."

The mobs applied torches to churches, convents, schools and rectories in the Cuatro Caminos and Chamartin sections on the outskirts of the capital and in suburban Tetuan.

Gasoline was taken from filling stations and the tanks of passing automobiles to be used in the work of destruction.

Buildings Burned

While firemen were being held off by armed Madrid mobs, the lowing buildings were destroyed:

The Los Angeles Church of Bravo Murillo; Ave Maria college in Berruguete St.; the church and college of Franciscans in Frocos Rodriquez St.; a small church in Almendara St.; a church in Villamil St.

Three churches and two rectories were destroyed by incendiaries in Cadiz, but other provinces reported their tranquility was unbroken.

The capital was quiet last night, but was patrolled by heavy forces of police. Crowds of the curious visited the smouldering remains of those buildings destroyed by rioters.

Three of those injured were French citizens who happened to be passing when the rioting began.

In two villages priests were driven from town and warned they would be killed if they returned.

SARRAUT'S CABINET ACTS TO BACK FRANC

Coalition Ministry Reported Split Over Steps To Take To Bolster Money.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, May 5—Premier Albert Sarraut's coalition cabinet assembled to plan a defense for the franc today with the ministers reported in disagreement and perturbed by a possibility of devaluation.

Informed sources said the leftist "People's Front," which won a majority in the new chamber of deputies, would face serious problems after the chamber meets June 1 and looked upon depreciation of the franc now as a solution to many difficulties.

Although all parties opposed devaluation in the election campaign, many political leaders concealed privately that this action might be necessary for France's economy recovery.

One high official said the leftists would "welcome" devaluation by the Sarraut cabinet now as the new government would escape responsibility for losses incurred by investors and would receive the credit for anticipated economic benefits.

TRIO DIES AS CAR RAMS BRIDGE BEAM

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 5—Two men and a woman were killed and a third man was injured seriously late last night when the automobile in which they were riding rammed beams of a wooden railroad trestle beneath which they sought to drive. All were Negroes. The dead: Laura Mitchell, 20; Ardilla Wiggins, 20, and Edward Cunningham, 36, driver. Owen Mac Dowell, 20, suffered a possible skull fracture.

KARPIS QUESTIONED ABOUT ACCOMPLICES

Authorities Want Data That Will Lead to Arrest of Others In Gang.

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 5—Seeking the trail of accomplices, government agents today resumed their questioning of Alvin Karpis.

Karpis has been interrogated most of the time since his arrest last Friday at New Orleans in an effort to gain information that would lead to the arrest of all who harbored the outlaw or aided him in his career of kidnaping, murder and robbery.

Date of arraignment of Karpis on four charges of kidnaping and kidnap conspiracy still was uncertain. District Attorney George F. Sullivan said he would ask that bail be set at $400,000—$100,000 on each count—when Karpis was arraigned after the questioning marathon had ended.

Karpis was charged with participation in the abduction of William Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer, in 1933, and Edward G. Brewer, St. Paul banker, in 1934. Hamm paid $100,000 ransom for his release and Brewer $200,000.

Federal agents gave no clue as to what—if anything—Karpis had told them.

TOWNSEND INQUIRY DELAYED TWO WEEKS

hearings in Washington was ordered by Chairman Bell, Democrat of Missouri, after subcommittees working in California, birthplace of the Townsend organization, and Michigan, one of its strongholds, completed their work.

James R. Sullivan, committee counsel, was set to direct the examination of Dr. Townsend about his plan for paying all persons over 60 a $200 monthly pension, financed by a nationwide transactions tax.

Dr. Townsend, after a last-minute conference with Sheridan Downey, his personal counsel, snapped back at Bell's assertion that the plan for a Townsend caravan from Los Angeles to Washington carrying petitions urging enactment of the Townsend plan into law was "another cruel hoax upon the aged and infirm."

"The only hoax known in relation to the Townsend plan is the Bell investigating committee," said Dr. Townsend in a statement.

He added that the caravan, scheduled to leave Los Angeles this morning, would bear petitions with an estimated 10,000,000 names indorsing the plan.

Bell has announced the members of the caravan will be welcome at the committee hearings. The schedule calls for a 12-day trip with the route going through Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland into the District of Columbia.

TWO AIDS TO KILLING SUSPECT ARE SOUGHT

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 5 — With the slaying of a Piqua, O., clerk attributed to Alfred Brady, who is held as the slayer of an Indianapolis police sergeant, authorities redoubled today their efforts to apprehend two companions of the arrested man.

Three Piqua residents made "positive identification" of Brady yesterday, police said, as the man who killed Edward Lindsay in the holdup of a Piqua grocery store several weeks ago.

At Troy O., County Prosecutor Paul T. Klapp said he would ask the grand jury to return a first degree murder indictment against Brady when it meets May 18. Klapp said he would try to have Brady extradited.

Eden Refuses To Preside Before League

GENEVA, May 5 — Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, informed the League of Nations today that he does not wish to preside at the May 11 session of the league council, as is his right.

Eden's decision came as a surprise.

It was understood he indicated to the league he did not believe it desirable that a representative of a nation so interested as Great Britain in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute should preside.

LOWER RAIL FARE SCHEDULES FILED

But Carriers Plan Court Action To Test Legality of ICC Ruling.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 5—Filing new lower rate schedules in compliance with an "interstate commerce commission order, a group of eastern railroads nevertheless planned today to take legal action to test the validity of the ruling.

Fares of two cents a mile in coaches and three cents in Pullmans become effective June 2. Existing fares are 3.6 for both classes, plus a Pullman surcharge.

The Baltimore & Ohio, not a party to the schedules filed yesterday, already had agreed to conform to the commission ruling and does not intend to combat it.

MUSICIANS OF OHIO OPEN MEETING HERE

Teacher" is the convention theme, and this topic will be the main question of discussion at the Wednesday morning session. H. W. Hannah of Cleveland, chairman of the committee on certification in the state roganization, and Charles Rodgers, former national chairman, will present the question, and the luncheon meeting is being arranged as an open forum. The question will come up for action at the business session Thursday. The object of the plan, Mr. Harms explained today, is not to bar teachers in the profession but to certify them in some definite subject through requirements of the state. The annual election of officers and the selection of next year's convention city will be highlights of the closing session Thursday.

Eastman Director Talks

Howard Hanson, director of Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., formally opened the convention at 2 p. m. with a talk on "Creative Developments in American Music." This was to be followed by a Chopin lecture-recital by Wiktor Labunski of Memphis, Tenn., one of three musicians upon whom the degree of doctor of music has been conferred by the Curtis Institute of Music. The others are Marcella Sembrich and Leopold Godowsky.

At the tea this afternoon the guests were to be entertained by the Varsity male quartet, of Columbus.

In addition to the certification luncheon Wednesday there will be an Ohio composers program. There will be a display of some of the work done by Ohio composers and those at the convention will be honored at the banquet, which will be a feature of the evening session. Appearing on the morning program will be the Springfield Mother Singers, and speakers will be Normand Lockwood, professor of theory and composition at Oberlin conservatory. An organ recital by Rexford Keller of Ohio Wesleyan university, and a recital by Frank Mannheimer of New York, concert pianist will feature the Wednesday afternoon program. The banquet Wednesday evening will be followed by a dance at the Marion Country club with the Junior Chamber of Commerce as hosts. Dress for both the luncheon and dance may be formal or informal.

The local committee includes L. G. Jones, Homer Mitchell, Miss Eleanor Burnard, Mrs. Mary T. Williams, Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh, Miss Grace Durfee, Mrs. John Lacey, Mrs. Earl N. Hale, Mrs. James C. Woods, Mrs. Merle Hamilton, Miss Elfreda Horn, Mrs. William Ackerman, Miss Grace Cooper, Mrs. Glen Penry, Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, Miss Mabel Wheatley and Mrs. C. J. Altmaier.

History of Marion Auxiliary Group

Eclipse Favorite No. 40, Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, whose members are hostesses for the twenty-first annual meeting of the state organization today, was organized at Galion by Mrs. Georgia Sargent, the first president of the grand auxiliary, with a membership of 23.

The first president of the local organization was Mrs. Flora Gledhill, who is now making her home in the Pythian Sisters home at Medina. Mrs. Gledhill, Mrs. Susan Heck of Galion, and Mrs. Mary Fletcher of North Main street are the three charter members of the organization now living. Twenty-five year pins have been awarded Mrs. Mary Kunther, of Mansfield and Mrs. Jessie Curren of Galion.

When the Erie railroad terminal was moved to Marion the lodge was transferred here in September of 1914.

The meeting today marks the second time the Marion women have been hostesses to the state convention. On May 26, 1920, the sixth annual meeting was held here at which time Mrs. Nina Rettig was president, and Mrs. Elizabeth Strausbaugh, who is now serving as secretary, held the same office.

There are 610 lodges in the grand auxiliary, 33 of which are in Ohio. The lodge motto is "Friendship and Charity."

The auxiliary was organized in Tucson, Ariz., and in 1934 celebrated its golden jubilee.

WRESTLER'S WIFE BURNED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, May 5—Mrs. Richard Shikat, 30, of Detroit, wife of the wrestler, was burned critically early today when her automobile skidded, turned over, and caught fire. Attaches at a hospital pronounced her condition as "fair."

MENINGITIS FATAL

FINDLAY, O., May 5 — City Health Commissioner Martha Laffey declared the death of Frances Joan Miemeyer, 10, last night was caused by a non-contagious type of spinal meningitis. Two similar cases were in the hospital isolation ward, the coroner said.

JURY SELECTION SNAGS TRIAL AT MANSFIELD

During the morning recess he said: "I feel all right." At the end of the day, however, he admitted: "I'm awfully tired."

Throughout the questioning of veniremen both sides failed to reveal what their strategy would be. Questioning was conducted largely by Special Prosecutor George T. Blecker and Prosecutor Marriott for the state, and by L. H. Beam for the defense.

Day Stands By

William Day, former Cleveland federal judge, sat beside the defendant throughout the sessions, but did no questioning at all. L. G. Worstell, a member of Day's law firm in Cleveland, also has joined the defense forces.

But while the law went about the slow business of selecting a jury, Wilson showed little emotion. Only frequent hitching about in his chair testified of the nervousness which he qualifiedly confessed. At his back, and inside the rail, sat his father, E. J. Wilson, cosmetics salesman, and his uncle, Harold Wilson of Chicago. E. J. Wilson and Harold Wilson married sisters, and while the one, the mother of the accused, was not in court, Harold's wife was.

The boy's mother is too ill to leave her bed. Shock and grief have made her seriously ill and although she has insisted she would come to court to stand by her son, her physical condition was unequal to her loyalty.

Sees Nephew First Time

Mrs. Harold Wilson saw her nephew for the first time since his arrest today. She and her husband, who have no children of their own, love the youth as if he were their own son. And when she was given her first opportunity to speak to him at the morning recess in the bailiff's office, she fell into his arms and sobbed:

"Oh Charles, Charles."

The boy was on the verge of tears, too, but his uncle, Frank Tingley, and another aunt, Ona Tingley of Oak Park, Ill., were there too, and he calmed himself to talk with them. His father, a short, impeccably groomed man, was at his side at every opportunity, patting him on the back, speaking encouragement in a low voice.

Believe It Was Accident

The Wilsons believe unequivocally in their son's statement that the shooting was accidental, that he brandished the revolver at his socially prominent sweetheart on that night "just to scare her."

But at the state's table in the high-ceilinged, old-fashioned courtroom, with its stained glass windows behind the bench lending a churchly air, there was tragedy, too. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Moorhead, youthfully, smartly dressed parents of the dead girl, sat almost motionless.

Twice during the questioning of veniremen, the pretty, dark-haired mother raised a handkerchief to her eyes to dry tears that came against her bidding.

Ralph Moorhead bowed his head and bit his lips several times when the judge or counsel asked the veniremen about their daughters.

Moorhead Not Bitter

The Moorheads are not bitter. They want only, they say, "justice." And they believe that the state of Ohio will give it to them. They believe the state will punish the boy who deprived their daughter of life.

The mother of the girl and the aunts of Charles Wilson all wore dark blue; Mrs. Moorhead a deep blue flannel suit with matching blouse and a blue fox collar and a black hat. Mrs. Wilson wore blue crepe and Miss Tingley blue boucle.

These women were in strange contrast to the motley crowd who had come to attend the trial. Young and old, they were an ill-assorted lot, many of whom had come an hour and a half before court convened to get the coveted seats, and eight of whom remained there luncheless through the noon hour. For Judge Huston had said:

"Eating in the courtroom will not be tolerated at any time."

Has Salty Humor

Known as a stickler for court formality, the veteran jurist, a tall, spare man, bald except for a fringe of snowy white hair, is known also for his salty humor and his conscientiousness in the courtroom.

He indicated in explaining the law to a venireman that he would limit the lowest verdict to manslaughter. So that Charles Wilson, charged with first degree murder, may expect from his 12 peers sitting in judgment upon him one of five verdicts: first degree without mercy, first degree with mercy, second degree, manslaughter or acquittal.

Delay in Choice of Methodist Bishops Urged

Resolution Suggests 4-Year Postponement as Assemblage Turns to Unification Plan.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 5—An important proposal to defer selection of new bishops for four years came today before the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

It was made in a resolution prepared by Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse university, Syracuse, N. Y., shortly before the conference turned to a controversial proposal for merging the 25-year-old board of temperance with the board of education.

There are seven vacancies through resignations or retirements to be filled on the 40-member board of bishops.

Await Its Printing

Consideration of the resolution was deferred until it could be printed in the conference record. It is expected to be taken up either tomorrow or Thursday.

Signed by a number of conference leaders, the resolution would request the committee on episcopacy to recommend that no bishops be appointed pending completion of unification with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church.

It would provide that the present board of bishops remain in charge pending expected ratification by 1940 of the unification proposal, which the conference approved yesterday.

Plan Shelved

A report of the supervisional system commission was to be taken up and many observers predicted that the plan to continue a program of merging church boards started four years ago would be shelved pending final settlement of church unification.

The program of merger and coordination would take from the temperance board the right to elect its own executive secretary, and place it within a newly created division of educational service, as a part of the board of education.

A statement of the temperance board criticized the commission's report.

Labeled Backward Step

"The mergers of these two boards would inevitably impress the country as a whole as indicating a backward step on the part of the Methodist church, in its relation to the temperance movement," the statement said.

"No explanation that can be given would possibly make an impression upon the public mind equally with this bald fact: Methodism has reduced its temperance leadership to an under-secretaryship in education."

"Prohibition would immediately become a closed issue, and present policies of the federal government would be acknowledged vindication by public opinion."

MARYLAND VOTERS FAVOR ROOSEVELT

the Maryland vote "has increased the pace started by Pennsylvania."

"Maryland truly is the land of the free and the home of the brave. She has increased the pace started by Pennsylvania.

"America is turning. Scuttlers of party platforms, squanderers of the people's money, subverters of the Constitution look out! Your relief political chain gangs will not save you. The people will stuff you clear through the bottom of the ballot box before they are through."

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

(Copyright, 1936, Margaret Bell Houston)

SYNOPSIS: After Elinor Fleming jilted him, Rupert Joris married a girl who came late at night to the old Joris estate looking for a lawyer. Rupert was drunk at the time; now he is sober and resentful. Dirk, his brother, knows the girl, whose name is Hope Devine. She has been making a living as a circus rider—but she is of good family. Rupert expects to obtain an annulment without trouble, and somewhat to his surprise Dirk finds himself on the girl's side. For the girl is lovely.

• • •

CHAPTER TWELVE

Disagreeable Duty

"SINCE it was your own idea," Dirk said, "I'd let it be a solution, annualment or not. You'd have to pay your gambling debts. You might as well pay this one."

"Thanks," said Rupert. "I'll look after that end of it, if you don't mind. I suppose she's in the house. Ask her to come in here."

Dirk urged him to wait.

"A little later. Your head will be clearer, and the chances are you'll be shaved."

"I'll talk to her now," said Rupert. His hand moved to the bell.

"I'll tell her," Dirk agreed. The less the servants saw of this, the better.

He went down the hall, and knocked at the tower-room. A voice bade him enter, and he opened the door to see Hope Standing beside the window. She wore the same black dress with the deep white collar. Her hair was smooth, not moist and curling as it had been last night. She looked small and elfish beside the immense furniture. Her eyes met his, and she waited.

Dirk disliked his errand.

"I watched for you at breakfast," he said. "But you had gone out."

"To church," she said.

"So Mary told me. I had been out to look for you. I thought you had run away."

She smiled.

"Where would I run?"

"To the circus, I supposed. The circus is gone. Did you know?"

"Yes. They are traveling south. I could have gone with them, of course.... Your brother—does he want to see me?"

Dirk wondered if she had overheard their conversation. He glanced toward the door between the two rooms, a door that had been put in during his grandfather's final illness. It was of thinner, frailer structure than the other doors in Lowrie. It was closed, he noticed, and the bolt had been drawn.

"As a matter of fact, he does," Dirk said, "I hope you won't mind going to him. He's not very well."

She came over to him.

"What's he going to do?"

"I hardly know. He's talking of annulment. In that case, you have your rights."

"Rights?"

"You could make it difficult for him, if you wanted to. Publicity, and that sort of thing."

She said in a low voice,

"I wouldn't do that."

"No, but he doesn't know you wouldn't. You have your rights, your monetary rights. He must pay for his prank."

A light came into her eyes making them bright and eager. Her eye-lids narrowed slightly. Dirk said at once,

"Don't make settlement difficult. Publicity is your weapon and you can't afford to use it. If you make things too hard he may try to find something in your motives, in your life. It wouldn't be hard for him to find the circus."

• • •

"At the same time, I want you to have justice. You married him in good faith, and he has no right to throw you out next morning. I'll be in the room while he talks to you; he'll keep me there as a witness. I'll stand where he can't see me, and if you can manage to look at me each time before you answer him, I'll try to convey to you—you must manage that all the proposals come from him. You are merely to accept or refuse. Understand?"

Her eyes searched his.

"You are siding against your brother," she said.

"This is not a battle," Dirk informed her. "You came here to get a lawyer. You still need one. Do you understand my instructions?"

Yes, she understood. She would try to follow them.

"All right, then. Ready?"

Rupert glanced at the girl as she entered. The hand holding his cigaret was unsteady. Dirk was closing the door, and Rupert said to him.

"Leave us alone, please"

Dirk, surprised, stood long enough to catch the girl's eye. He went then, leaving with her a reassuring smile. Her eyes continued to rest on the door when he had closed it. Rupert's voice called her back.

"Won't you sit down?"

She took a chair close to the door. Again he glanced at her, surprising revulsion in her eyes. He was conscious for a moment of his uncombed, unshaven state, aware too that he could not have looked much better last night. Why, then, had she married him? Or was the revolted look mere acting? She was a brown, small pixie of a girl, a type he did not care for.

"You realize," he said, "that I was not sane last night?"

Rather surprisingly she answered.

"Yes, I realize."

"Then you realize, too," he added, "that it won't hold. What are your terms for getting out quietly?"

She was silent.

"You need money," he explained. "How much do you want?"

She answered.

"I need money, yes. And I think you should pay for...your prank. But I don't want to get out ... quietly, or any other way. I want to stay here."

"It's out of the question," said Rupert. "I'm talking about annulment."

"I understand. You can have it annulled if you want to. It wasn't my idea to marry you, but I did it in good faith. And I went in and got my trunk. I'm all unpacked, and it will be hard to move right away."

"You were rather sudden about getting your trunk, weren't you?"

Who had told her to do that?

"I think not. I had no idea that you intended to put me out. I suppose you don't know what it feels like not to have a home, and then suddenly to find one."

"I suppose not," agreed Rupert. "But I believe you have a home... elsewhere."

"I had a home," she corrected. "I cut all ties when I came to New York. My father is a clergyman...as I told you last night... one of the old-fashioned sort. He wanted me to stay at home, and I wanted to go. I was here teaching music."

"I see. My brother has looked into your story, I have no reason to question anything you say, even your statement that our so-called marriage was not your idea. But it's out of the question for you to stay here, pending the annulment, or after it. If I give you money you can find a home. Suppose I pay you five thousand dollars."

She looked at him, silent, gone rather pale. Apparently the sum spelled wealth to her. Rupert, who had been ready to bid for his freedom on an ascending scale, realized that he might have had it even more cheaply.

"You agree," he said, "to leave, if I give you a check for that amount?"

She agreed. "When may I have it?" she asked.

He looked at his watch.

"At 4 o'clock," he said. "I will come to your room then with a witness. I will give you the check in return for your written agreement."

She rose, and Rupert, who had not sat down, opened the door for her.

"I may stay tonight?" she asked.

He agreed to that. After all she could not start the circus until tomorrow.

A group of hangers-on were still in the dining-room. Cullen, whom Dirk knew, was one of the men who had been drinking with Rupert the night before. Dirk had been right, he was thinking. Dirk had appeared over-solicitious about the girl—it was natural, of course, convinced as he was of her innocence—so he—Rupert—had shut him out.

But Dirk had been right in his deductions, and obviously in his findings too. The girl was respectable (Rupert's mind veered slightly from the word "decent") and inexperienced to the point of naivete. She would make no trouble.

They would dispose of her, perhaps less expeditiously, but certainly as effectually, as one clears a thing out of the house.

The small brown face and dark head bent over the papers. Rupert, looking down at her, felt a sudden pang of pity. He was doing a shabby thing, but it was necessary. He must get rid of her.

CITY TEACHERS HOLD ELECTION

Mr. Lee, an instructor of senior high school subjects, presented a report on the 12-month salary payment plan which was studied by a committee of which he is chairman. Cecil Gabler, president of the association during the 1935-36 school year, presided at the meeting.

Other officers elected are: Miss Mabel Turney, vice president; Miss Mary Joe Stafford, secretary; Stewart Shipman, treasurer. Miss Grace Colvin, instructor at Vernon Heights Junior High school, was elected a delegate to the National Education Association's national convention to be held in Portland, Ore., during July. Miss Philomen Gregg was elected alternate.

No action was taken following a report of a study of the 12-month salary payment plan which revealed that Marion teachers are not in favor of it. A straw vote taken earlier this week was preceded by communications with other school systems where the 12-month plan is now in effect. Under the plan, salaries would be paid in 12 monthly installments, instead of over the nine months of actual teaching as at present.

Russell Snare, president of the city council, addressed the group on the 3.2 mill levy to be presented to Marion voters at the primaries May 12.

ETHIOPIANS ATTACK OHIO MISSIONARIES

Four from New Concord Beat Off Bandits After Slaying One of Them.

By The Associated Press

NEW CONCORD, O., May 5—Muskingum college officials and members of the United Presbyterian Board of American Missions remained apprehensive today over the fate of four missionaries in Addis Ababa who were attacked yesterday at their headquarters by mobs sacking and burning the Ethiopian capital.

Dr. Thomas A. Lamble of New Concord, head of the Ethiopian missionary service, was attacked by bandits who were beaten off after one of their number had been slain and another wounded. Dr. Lamble was personal physician to Emperor Haile Selassie who fled the capital.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

F. E. TOWNSEND

By The Associated Press

Just what part of Dr. F. E. Townsend and his cohorts will play in the elections this year is an unknown and unsettling factor for congressmen seeking re-election.

The Townsend old age pension plan gained much momentum last winter and an advocate of the idea in Michigan was elected to congress where a persistent Townsend bloc materialized.

Then the plan was subjected to a congressional investigation. Dissention broke in the Townsend ranks precipitating the resignation of co-founder R. E. Clements. Investigators promised further disclosures.

Congressional candidates wonder if the investigation has depleted the doctor's ranks.

Married Comrades

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Seeks Lillian's Aid in Decoding Secret Note.

I MUST FIND Lillian immediately. This was my first thought as I turned from the pseudo junkman who had brought me the secret code letter. I knew, of course, that a letter in code was either from my father, or from someone to whom he had given one of the codes which he knew I could decipher.

My need of Lillian was not for the deciphering of the code. That I could manage myself. Indeed, under my father's tutelage, I had had almost uncanny luck in code work upon several occasions of moment in our lives.

But with the uncertainty of my father's fate before me—we had had no word from him since he vanished into the night upon his secret mission—I felt that I could not bear to decipher that code letter with its possible dread message unless I had someone I loved with me.

Rather Have Dicky

Of course, if Dicky had been at home, I should have gone to him. Rather, I reflected whimsically, I should have waited meekly to see if he came to me, for the junkman had asked first for Dicky, and then for Harry Underwood, turning the code letter over to me only when assured the men were away from home and would not be back until late.

But in Dicky's absence I wanted Lillian, and putting the letter inside my dress, I paused only long enough by the door to tell Jim of "the "junkman's" request.

"Give him some old clothing and magazines and papers, Jim—whatever he wants," I said. "He wants his departure to look natural."

"I get you," Jim said comprehending. "I'll see to him," and then I was past him and skimming up the stairs to my own room, seeing, as I passed the outdoor balcony, that Mother Graham and Lillian were still out there.

I knew better than to summon Lillian away from that session of "daisy making." I must wait until I could contrive to make her exit appear a perfectly natural thing.

Easee Tension

With fingers that I could not keep from trembling, I locked the code letter away in a drawer of my bedroom desk, and bathed my face and hands in cold water, for I felt as if I were burning with fever. Then, with grim determination to achieve nonchalance at any cost, I crossed leisurely to the balcony.

Mother Graham and Lillian were sitting close together, with my mother-in-law's head bent over the daisy wheel in Lillian's hand. Lillian's face was tense, with the strained, almost bewildered expression which it wears when she is playing cards, all the varieties of which, save solitaire, she detests. Harry calls it "Lil's kid-about-to-be-slapped expression," and viewing her unhappy face, my treacherous risibles almost betrayed me as I membered the gibe.

My mother-in-law's features, grimly determined, but tinged with disapproval, told me that she was not particularly enjoying the session, either, and I had no further compunctions about disturbing them as I said with forced gayety:

"How is the daisy factory coming along?"

There was ludicrous relief in the eyes of both women, and, Lillian laughed with nervous gayety.

"Public Benefactor No. 1," she exclaimed. "Your mother-in-law is worn to a frazzle trying to teach me how to make these dratted daisies. They look so easy, but there is a certain knack to them which she has to perfection, but I have five thumbs—count 'em—on either hand. But I'm game, I'll stick here all day if necessary, but I hope for her sake you have come to summon me away from here. She must be a wreck, poor dear."

Mother's Boldness

"I'm nothing of the kind," my mother-in-law asserted, but her tone lacked conviction. "And you're really doing very well," she said in the voice and manner one uses for social fibs.

"So sorry to disappoint you," I told Lillian mockingly, but my eyes flashed her a far different signal, telling her that I needed her at once. "But I didn't come to disturb this session, merely to watch it. But, mother"—ostentatiously looking at my watch—"do you know that it is past time for your morning nap? I didn't think of it until just this minutes, but you know Dr. Gibson won't like it a bit if you miss it."

I was speaking only the truth, for the wise physician has prescribed two daily resting periods for my mother-in-law, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon, and she finds that they are wonderfully beneficial in conserving her strength. But I wondered, as the words left my lips, whether her inclination or her stern sense of duty as a teacher would prevail.

MEXICAN POLITICAL TURMOIL INCREASES

Defeated Candidates in State Primaries Critical of Party Procedure.

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, May 5—Grumbling over the National Revolutionary (government) party's electoral decisions grew louder today in Mexico.

Although President Lazaro Cardenas' personal leadership was unchallenged, defeated candidates in several state primaries were openly critical of the party's procedure in picking winners.

In Vera Cruz, where Deputy Manlio Fabio Altamirano was declared the government party candidate for governor, an open revolt against the organization that has ruled Mexico's politics for the last decade appeared to be developing.

Joaquin Munoz, another member of congress who ran against Fabio Altamirano with agrarian and labor support, resigned from the party and was reported to have agreed to join other unsuccessful candidates in an effort to defeat the government standard-bearer at the approaching elections.

In the state of Puebla just south of the capital, workers, described as bitter at the party's selection of Gen. Maximino Avila Camacho for governor over their candidate Gilberto Bosques, were reported preparing to march on the capital to protest.

THINGS LOOK BETTER IN COAL PAY FIGHT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 5—Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, was sufficiently encouraged today by developments in the anthracite coal wage conference to declare "things look better."

McGrady, who has participated since last Thursday in conferences of operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers hastened to add:

"I mean, they are not farther apart. Nothing definite has been agreed upon."

Striving to avert a suspension of operations in the Pennsylvania industry employing 106,000 men, McGrady planned another conference today. Sessions have been held since Feb. 24 in an effort to write a new contract.

LAST RITES HELD FOR S. R. REBER

The funeral of Samuel R. Reber, former city service director and city councilman, was conducted today at 2:30 p. m. at the home at 436 Mt. Vernon avenue. Mr. Reber died Saturday after a long illness. The service was in charge of Rev. Franklin C. Hartley of the Epworth M. E. church. Burial was made in the Marion cemetery.

RIOTS SPREAD THROUGH SPAIN

Dozen Catholic Churches, Schools and Monasteries Destroyed by Fire.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, May 5—Nearly two score persons were wounded and valuable church property was destroyed yesterday in the most violent anti-clerical rioting in Spain since the left election victory in February.

Rioters set fire to more than a dozen Roman Catholic churches, schools and monasteries. The violence began when rumors were spread among leftists that nuns had distributed poisoned candy to girls in their charge.

Two nuns were wounded when they came into the line of fire as they led children from a burning convent school.

Capital Hard Hit

The disorders centered in the capital, but there also were scenes of violence in the province of Cadiz.

Heavy forces of shock police were powerless to cope with mobs of rioting extremists, aroused by the whispered rumors the Catholic clergy was "poisoning children."

The mobs applied torches to churches, convents, schools and rectories in the Chatre Cantinos and Chamartin sections on the outskirts of the capital and in suburban Tetuan.

Gasoline was taken from filling stations and the tanks of passing automobiles to be used in the work of destruction.

Buildings Burned

While firemen were being held off by armed Madrid mobs, the lowing buildings were destroyed:

The Los Angeles Church of Bravo Murillo; Ave Maria college in Harraguete St.; the church and college of Franciscans in Frecos Rodriquez St.; a small church in Almendara St.; a church in Villamil St.

Three churches and two rectories were destroyed by incendiaries in Cadiz, but other provinces reported their tranquility was unbroken.

The capital was quiet last night, but was patrolled by heavy forces of police. Crowds of the curious visited the smouldering remains of those buildings destroyed by rioters.

Three of those injured were French citizens who happened to be passing when the rioting began.

In two villages priests were driven from town and warned they would be killed if they returned.

SARRAUT'S CABINET ACTS TO BACK FRANC

Coalition Ministry Reported Split Over Steps To Take To Bolster Money.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, May 5—Premier Albert Sarraut's coalition cabinet assembled to plan a defense for the franc today after the ministers reported in disagreement and perturbed by a possibility of devaluation.

Informed sources said the leftist "People's Front," which won a majority in the new chamber of deputies, would face serious problems after the chamber meets June 1 and looked upon depreciation of the franc now as a solution to many difficulties.

Although all parties opposed devaluation in the election campaign, many political leaders conceded privately that this action might be necessary for France's economy recovery.

One high official said the leftists would "welcome" devaluation by the Sarraut cabinet now as the new government would escape responsibility for losses incurred by investors and would receive the credit for anticipated economic benefits.

TRIO DIES AS CAR RAMS BRIDGE BEAM

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 5—Two men and a woman were killed and a third man was injured seriously late last night when the automobile in which they were riding rammed beams of a wooden railroad trestle beneath which they sought to drive. All were Negroes.

The dead: Laura Mitchell, 30; Ardilla Wiggins, 30, and Edward Cunningham, 36, driver. Owen Mae Dowell, 30, suffered a possible skull fracture.

Cleveland Defeats Senators, 6-3; Reds Sink Gian

INDIANS COLLECT 13 HITS OFF APPLETON, FORMER TRIBESMAN

Hubbell's Four-Hit Pitching Fails To Prevent Cincinnati Victory.

The New York Giants batsmen should hang their heads when Carl Hubbell comes along for they have been letting him down in shameful fashion

In the last 26 innings the ace flinger has worked on the mound the Giants have given him exactly one run to play with That isn't much of a lead in any ball game even behind Hubbell who won 23 while losing 12 last year

Hubbell pitched four hit ball yesterday but the Giants failed to score a single run and went down 1-0 before the Cincinnati Reds In his previous start Hubbell went 17 innings against the Cardinals but lost 2 1 when his mates failed to fathom the slants of Leroy Parmelee Hubbell won his first two games of the season

Cuyler Scores

Only one of the four hits against Hubbell was an extra base blow but it subsequently spelled defeat. Kiki Cuyler opened the ninth inning with a triple Sammy Byrd hoisted a fly to Mel Ott in right field and Cuyler raced home with the winning run sliding into Gus Mancuso to beat Ott's throw to the plate

The Giants managed to collect eight hits off Elbert Stine 23-year old rookie but it was the old story of failing to hit with a run in sight Stine did not issue a single pass

Rain played havoc with the schedule

Ray Benge the leading pitcher of the National League registered his fourth straight win as the Boston Bees defeated the St Louis Cardinals 7 6 to halt the latter's winning streak at six games The Cleveland Indians took their second straight victory from the Senators 6-3

Although Benge was credited with the victory he was retired in the Cardinal half of the seventh after he had walked two and Leo Durocher had singled to fill the bags The Cards scored only one run however as Frankie Frisch hit into a double play

Tribe Gets 13 Hits

Pete Appleton former Indian hurler was belted for 13 hits by his old pals He held the Tribe scoreless for five innings but Cleveland scored in every inning after that Appleton had three straight victories to his credit before the encounter

The Indians already hard hit by the illness of Bruce Campbell which was expected to terminate his career received another blow in the game when Earl Averill pulled a leg muscle

As the Reds battled on the ball field there was turmoil behind the scenes General Manager Larry S MacPhail inferred that Paul Derringer the Reds ace flinger might be dropped from the active list unless he plays like he's supposed to Derringer was suspended without pay when he failed to slide home in Sunday's game Derringer won 22 games last year but he has failed to show his customary form this season

IT'S A HARD LIFE JOE LOUIS LEADS IN TRAINING

It appears that Joe Louis the Negro heavyweight is taking life easy at his training camp at Lafayetteville N C for his ring date June 18 with the German invader Max Schmeling Stretched out here in a hammock made of slats Joe seems to be catching up on the one thing he can't get enough of—sleep His strenuous training is due to begin May 15 when he settles down at Lakewood N J (Associated Press Photo)

Kopecky Pins Livernois Following Battle Royal

Joe Kopecky of Jackson Miss finished at the top of the heap after six wrestlers tangled in a battle royal and then paired in individual scraps at the Shovel gymnasium last night. Kopecky scored two consecutive falls over Marcel Livernois of Boston in the main go

Johnny LaRue of Dallas Tex battled to a draw with Wild Red Berry of Pittsburg Kan after each had registered a fall in the 45-minute semi final scrap Marlino Angelo of Buffalo and Sailor Moran of St Louis probably two of the toughest boys in the half dozen who started the battle royal participated in only the opening minutes of the gang encounter

Angelo was the first to be eliminated It was through the initial efforts of Wild Red Berry that Angelo got into a tough spot and was floored by not less than three opponents in the opening minute of the battle royal During the second minute the remaining wrestlers ganged Sailor Moran and pinned his shoulders

Livernois LaRue and Kopecky cooperated to eliminate Wild Red Berry and immediately after Red's shoulders touched the mat Livernois and Kopecky floored LaRue The entire mad scramble lasted just 4½ minutes with the capacity crowd well entertained from the first bell

Berry untamed humped and battered his way to the first fall over LaRue in the semi final match The Kansan scored on a bounce into the ropes and back somersault using a body press to pin LaRue's shoulders in 15 minutes Riding out Berry's airplane spin LaRue put on a series of knee jolts to even the match at the end of 9 minutes Increasing the rough stuff as the bout progressed the semi finalists mauled each other to a draw in the last fall LaRue repaid much of Berry's slugging

When Marcel Livernois assisted Joe Kopecky in flooring LaRue at the finish of the battle royal he probably thought he would be paired with the easier of the two possible opponents Livernois however ran into plenty of trouble as the lanky southerner showed him a few new tricks of wrestling and two two successive falls

Kopecky used seven minutes to work into a position to put on a toe hold which forced his opponent to say uncle in the first fall He handled himself well retaining Livernois' rough tactics with a display which had the Boston boy on the outside of the ropes on numerous occasions Livernois tried for a crab hold ended in disaster as Kopecky skillfully and cleverly snapped out with a neat somersault to pin Livernois and win the second fall and match at the end of 10 minutes

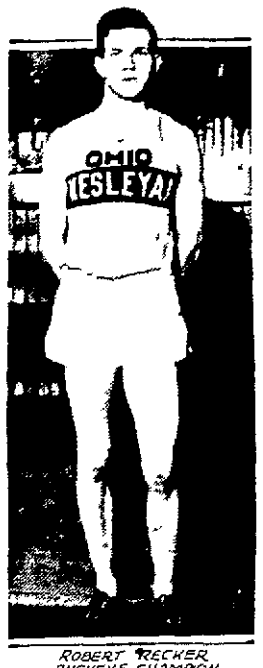
Wesleyan Favored To Win Buckeye Loop Field Title



ROBERT RECKER BUCKEYE CHAMPION HIGH JUMPER

May Break 8 Year Grip on Laurels Held by Ohio, Miami

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O May 5 — Ohio Wesleyan loomed as "tops" in the Buckeye conference track and field sphere today and seemed destined to break the eight year grip which Ohio University and Miami have held on the thin-clad laurels

The Battling Bishops with dual victories over both the Bobcats and Redskins appear on their way back to the heights they enjoyed a decade ago when the Buckeye was an infant loop

Coach George Gauthier boasting only a few individual stars but blessed with all around strength built a team this year which defeated Ohio University defending champion 69½ to 61½ and then romped over Miami 72⅓ to 58⅔

Champion in last year's conference high jump event Robert Recker Ohio Wesleyan ace is after a new record in this year's meet which will be held May 22 and 23 at Miami university Oxford Recker went 6 feet 1 inch last year and has unofficially beaten the conference record of 6 feet 1¾ inches held by Hammond of Ohio Wesleyan and made in 1933 Recker lives at Perrysburg O

The Bishops are strong in the hurdles dashes broad and high jump and are good for seconds and thirds in a host of other events Their lone weakness is in the distance runs

Miami has been without the services of Amsden Oliver Negro hurdler and Pete Jones ace javelin thrower Ohio University has Paul Halleck Olympic weight tossing prospect but has lost Elden Armbrust and Jim Gilmore who scored 27 points between them in the Buckeye meet in 1935

Cincinnati in losing to Ohio University 90 to 37 faded from title consideration Dayton and Marshall remaining Buckeye teams are expected to enter few if any men in the league meeting May 22 and 23

NEW U. OF IL CAGE COACH ON

Doug Mills Not Comm Any Style of Gam places His Teac

By International News

CHAMPAIGN Ill — Friendly Doug Mills new of Illinois head basketball hasn't any pet theories on to speculate with when he his cage duties next fall

Moreover he is not con any definite style of basketball in his own terms It's a matter of system but a case of the most out of your ma

Paradoxically pupil teacher for Mills succeeds eran Craig Ruby widely as one of the masters of Ruby resigned at the close of 1936 season because he want to depend on basketball livelihood all his life

It was under Ruby's tutelage the new hardwood instructionally known as Gag on the Illini cage team years ago Ruby's system emphasized by the short pass break offense probably faintly reflected in Mills

Besides his basketball Mills is to continue his freshman football coaching tion to the head coach called for a considerable in salary estimated as $4 000

He believes in boys who petitors The lads who kets in practice may not floor when the game says It will be the player loves to win and comes actual competition

WHY ARE YOU TWO HANGING AROUND THIS NEIGHBORHOOD?
WE COULDN'T CONTINUE ON OUR JOURNEY WITHOUT OUR RIFLES AND PACKS, MR. DRAKE -WE FORGOT 'EM-
YOUR DAUGHTER ELSIE KNOWS THAT TRAVELLING UNARMED IN THIS WILD COUNTRY IS DANGEROUS, SO SHE BROUGHT OUR THINGS TO US
I'LL GIVE YOU YOUR PACKS BACK, BUT I'LL KEEP THE GUNS -
NOW GET GOING -AND KEEP GOING,
DON'T ARGUE, SPUD, HE MEANS IT-
I'LL TEACH HER NOT TO FEED OR TALK TO STRANGERS, WIFE!
YOU KEEP YOUR HANDS OFF ELSIE, GARRY; I'LL TAKE CARE OF HER, MYSELF

I'M LOOKING FOR A GUY NAMED POPEYE - I WANT TO BREAK HIS NECK.
HE ISN'T HERE
WELL, THEN, I WANT TO SEE A FELLOW BY THE NAME OF WIMPY?
IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO FOR YOU, MY GOOD MAN? JONES IS MY NAME - I'M ONE OF THE JONES BOYS
JONES WON'T DO! I'M SUPPOSED TO HALF-KILL A GUY NAMED WIMPY
MR. WIMPY WENT TO CHINA
SMITH IS MY NAME - I'M ONE OF THE SMITH GIRLS
LISTEN, JONES - I'M LOOKIN' FOR A "JEEP", WHATEVER THAT IS - IS THERE A JEEP AROUND HERE?
A JEEP? ER - WHY, NO, ER - HMM - A JEEP? EH?

I THOUGHT YOU KNEW I HAD A DATE WITH ROMANTIC ROMEO TONIGHT
I THOUGHT I COULD SEE YOU BEFORE YOU LEFT
SIT DOWN, MAC - THERE GOES THE DOOR BELL AGAIN
RING A LING
LOOK, MAC - IT'S A CORSAGE FROM CHARLEY AND A VERSE, TOO
I WAS AFRAID OF THAT
MY HEART SO TRUE, YOUR EYES OF BLUE - BLAH - BLAH - ISN'T THAT SWEET, MAC?
YEAH, BUT YOUR EYES ARE BROWN, NOT BLUE
OH, MAC, THAT'S POETIC LICENSE

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

SHADOW-PROOF WRAPPED-BACK SLIP IS ADJUSTABLE; FITS PERFECTLY

Offers an "inside" story to every dressed woman's appearance—you'll find that it is always clothed by a smoothly fitted, comfortable slip. And Anne Adams designed a wrap-around model that serves every frock in your wardrobe from sun-backs to fancy sheers, and you won't have to muss your well-combed head when you put it on! It's built-up to insures you against slip-ping shoulder straps, the overlap keeps it shadow proof, and the fastening makes it adjustable. It looks like the proverbial glove!. So send for the pattern today and you'll find how easy and inexpensive it is to make this "perfect creation."

Pattern 4005 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44. Size 16 takes 2⅞ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send Fifteen cents (15c) in coin or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and pattern number.

Be sure to state size.

Order our New Anne Adams Pattern Book and learn how easily you can make a smart summer wardrobe that's just your type. The latest frocks, suits, lingerie, beach and vacation clothes; bridal outfits. Lovely clothes for children too. Smart styles for stouts. And a full picture-story of summer fabrics and accessories. Book 15c. Pattern 15c. Twenty-five cents for both, when ordered together.

Address orders to The Marion Star, Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th St., New York, N. Y.

WHY OUT OF TOWN PEOPLE BUY FURNITURE HERE
Out-of-town people are more serious about buying than the average customers. They go slowly. They look around and compare. They talk it over. They buy where values are greatest. Where they have complete stocks to choose from. That is why they come to

MAN FINED, JAILED ON CUTTING CHARGE

Howard Gray, 56, farmer of near Magnetic Springs, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the Union county jail last night when he pleaded guilty to a charge of cutting with intent to wound before Justice of the Peace John C. Hartshorn of Marysville. The fine was suspended provided Gray pays the costs of prosecution.

The two men were arrested Saturday night after a disturbance in a Magnetic Springs beer parlor owned by William Tharp, a Marion steel mill worker. Gray was accused of cutting Tharp. Albert Hall of New Dover and a man by the name of Metcalf, with a steel corn husking peg in the melee that followed a barrage of empty beer bottles thrown by Gray and Hayes.

DRINKING DAUGHTER DEPLORED BY DRYS

By The Associated Press

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 5—Dr. D. Leigh Colvin of New York told the prohibition national convention in the keynote address today repeal had led to "the alcoholizing of vast numbers of women."

"Formerly it was the wandering boy who made the mother's hair grow gray; now it is the drinking daughter also," he said.

Dr. Colvin, considered the likely presidential nominee of the party, told the 150 delegates that "the liquor traffic is back, more aggressive, more insolent, more devastating than ever before.

CAR HITS HYDRANT, TREE

Dr. Kenneth D. Smith escaped injury last night when his automobile struck a fire hydrant and tree on Summit street. His car struck the hydrant, Dr. Smith said, when he was blinded by lights of another car as he swerved to avoid a collision. After hitting the hydrant the automobile sideswiped a tree in front of the E. E. Glosser residence at 877 Summit street. A front wheel on the car was badly damaged.

SYMPATHY BRINGS EDUCATION

Chinese in the province of Kweichow, China, have found something they think is in common with people from two British colonies. Desiring independence, the people turned to a form of localized communism of political ideals. They believe that Great Britain is an overbearing imperialist nation, and behave toward her representatives accordingly. Neither do they like missionaries, who, they say, rebuke them for growing and smoking opium. They have decided, however, to listen to missionaries from Canada and Australia because the Chinese believe the visitors to be members of two small nations oppressed by tyrannical England.

Pilgrim Holiness Pastors To Meet Here Wednesday

The vanguard of the more than 100 Pilgrim Holiness ministers who will be in Marion Wednesday and Thursday for the annual Ohio District Ministerial convention at the First church on Bennett street began arriving this afternoon for the opening service tonight at 7:30.

Heading the visitors will be Rev. Walter L. Surbrook of Detroit, Mich., general superintendant, who will deliver an evangelistic message at tonight's service.

The convention will get under way Wednesday morning at 9 with a devotional service conducted by Rev. Harry Holtzapple of Lima.

There will be no business sessions in connection with the convention, which will be strictly devotional, Rev. Surbrook will speak at the morning and night services on both Wednesday and Thursday. His morning talks will be "Addresses to the Clergy," and at nights he will deliver evangelistic sermons.

Rev. Joel Harman of Arcanum, O., will talk Wednesday afternoon on "Qualifications for Ministerial Success," and Rev. C. P. Pridgen of Marion First church will lead a round table discussion of Sunday school work.

REV. W. L. SURBROOK

The Thursday afternoon speaker will be Rev. Bertha Kienbaum of Mason, O., who will discuss "Preparing for the Coming Revival." Mrs. F. C. Sanchelta of Dayton will lead a round table discussion of young people's work.

All sessions of the convention will be open to the public.

CARDINGTON GETS FUNDS FOR NEW WATER PLANT

$88,000 Revenue Bonds, Bearing 4 Per Cent Interest, Delivered by Village Officials.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, O., May 5—Cardington municipal officials were in Cleveland today to clear the way for starting work on construction of an $88,000 waterworks system for the community.

Mayor Frank Alga, Clerk Guy Mathews, Treasurer Burt and City Solicitor W. P. Vaughan left for Cleveland this morning to turn over mortgage water revenue bonds to the federal reserve bank there and obtain money for the project. The officials last Friday had the mortgage revenue issue, which will raise $57,500 of the total cost, signed at the Huntington National bank in Columbus, which will act as trustees for the bond holders.

Funds Available

Earlier last week they had received word from Washington PWA officials that funds for financing the project were available at the reserve bank in Cleveland.

Work on the project is to get under way about May 15 with PWA laborers working. The board of public affairs has awarded contracts to W. E. Caldwell of Louisville, Ky., for the elevated storage tank, Kelso-Wagner Co. of Dayton for pumps and iron removal plant and Whitney Bros. of Charleston, W. Va., for the water mains.

Funds for the project come principally from the PWA loan and grant of $77,300 of which $57,500 is a loan. This loan, secured by a mortgage on the plant's revenue, is in the form of a bond issue which the government purchased at an interest rate of four per cent.

Payable from Earnings

Earnings of the plant will be used to pay off the bonds.

More than 100 persons have signed for water service. Their rate will be $4 a quarter or $16 a year for which they will receive 5,000 gallons of water each quarter.

Construction of the plant is expected to be completed late next September or early in October.

Reptiles Banned After Evangelist Succumbs To Bite

By The Associated Press

BARTOW, Fla., May 5—Demonstrations with poisonous reptiles were banned here today following the death of Alfred D. Weaver, 35-year-old faith cultist who was bitten by a large diamond back rattlesnake during a revival meeting Sunday night.

A coroner's jury decided Weaver died "by the bite of a rattlesnake through his own carelessness" but a fellow member of his congregation said the dead man had been "ready to lay down his life for the Lord."

George W. Hensley, evangelist head of the group to which Weaver belonged, told the coroner's jury "probably 200" persons had been bitten during his "faith demonstration" but that Weaver was the first to die.

Hensley said faith gave power to resist the snake venom and insisted he had been bitten "200 times and only been a little sick once."

Hensley told how Weaver at the height of the revival reached into a box and seized the squirming snake which was several feet long. He was bitten twice on the arm but paid little attention to it at the time and spurned medical aid. He died Monday morning at the home of a Hensley convert after his arm had become swollen and discolored.

GIRL SEIZED WITH KARPIS TAKEN AWAY

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, May 5—Ruth Robinson, the "woman in white" who was taken into custody here last Friday with Alvin Karpis, the alleged St. Paul kidnaper, was spirited away from the federal building early today by bureau of investigation officers and taken to an undisclosed destination in an automobile.

Fred Hunter, her companion in the Karpis case who is an Ohio mail robbery suspect, was slipped out of the building by another group of federal agents.

Both had been questioned from Friday night until early this morning in the offices of David W. Magee, federal agent in charge of the bureau of investigation here. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the bureau of identification who came to New Orleans and personally directed the raid on the Karpis apartment, said the woman was known as Ruth Robinson of Arkansas and that she had gone under other names.

Both prisoners have been housed in the federal offices continuously since the raid. It is not known whether any charges have been filed against them.

Magee and his men took Ruth out of the building in the early morning hours with a black typewriter cover over her head to shield her face from view.

The latest sound from the temporary prison quarters last night was the hysterical laughing of a woman, supposedly Ruth.

MISSION WORKER IS SPEAKER HERE

A stereopticon lecture on South America was given before members of the Marion County Ministerial association by Rev. William Hundricks at a meeting yesterday morning in the City library.
